POURING OF CONCRETE for the west abutment of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge began Monday. A spokesman for Merritt-Chapman Scott, contractor, said the pouring of the concrete marked the "start of the bridge from the west side." There will also be an abutment on the east side of the river. Between these two abutments the bridge will rest on 30 piers, eight of which will be in the river. Four of those in the river already have been started. The foundations for 11 piers have been completed. (Freeman Photo)

Citizens Pushed To Vote

'No Sitting Out,' Eisenhower Says

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Prodded by President Eisenhower, citizens decide with their ballots today whether Republicans or Democrats should control Congress or divide the two Houses between the parties.

Also being elected are governors in 33 states and hundreds of state and local officials.

Eisenhower told fellow Americans last night "there is no such thing as sitting out" the election. Any absentee form the polls, he said, would double the effectiveness of a vote by one with conflicting views on government.

"You inescapably must participate in this decision," the President said in a radio-television broadcast, as Mrs. Eisenhower beamed at his side.

IN A POSITIVE WAY, he said, those who go to the polls can vote for the program and the persons they favor. Negatively, those who fail to mark a ballot "double the value of the vote of anyone who does not believe in the things you believe in," he added.

"By staying away from the polls, you have participated in the decision, and that means there is no such thing as sitting out an election," he declared.

There was no official explanation of the President's remark later to his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, that "by golly, sometimes you sure get tired of all this clackety clack."

AIDES SAID, however, that at the end of dozens of speeches and thousands of miles of travel Eisenhower seemed genuinely glad that the campaign was over.

For he had campaigned more strenuously on behalf of his party than any president in an "off year" in recent years—thus staking the prestige of his administration at least to a degree on the fortunes of GOP candidates in this non-presidential year balloting.

The voters, who could listen to the candidates or not as they chose, seemed on the whole somewhat unexcited by the campaign, which took on increasing bitterness in its closing weeks.

Those who pose as experts forecast that only about 45 million of the approximately 75 million eligible would take the trouble to queue up at the polling places opening as early as 6 a. m. (EST) on the eastern seaboard and closing at late as 11 p. m. (in comparabble time) on the west Coast.

WITH THE CAMPAIGN firing finally stilled last night, Democrats voiced seemingly confident claims they would win control of both Houses of Congress. This would give Eisenhower the first opposition-organized Congress since the GOP 80th stirred Democratic former President Harry S. Truman's wrath after the 1946 elections.

Republicans were less optimistic in their forecasts, despite Vice President Nixon's assertion on the same broadcast with the President that the Eisenhower adminisrtation had given the country "the best govern-

THE MARQUEE in front of the Broadway Theatre, shown in the above picture as work began to modernize the exterior and interior, has now been removed. This is only the beginning of a re-modeling job which will include a complete new line of seats, a new lounge upstairs, redecoration, a lobby in Roman brick, etc. According to Joseph Sommers, manager of Kingston Reade's Theatres, the major part of the work should be completed by Christmas. The theatre will continue operation, except for matinees in the afternoon Monday through Friday. (Freeman Photo)

New York Weather Is Mostly Poor

Gubernatorial Outcome in Doubt

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—The people of New York are voting today between Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican, and Avereil Harriman, Democrat-Liberal, as their choice to succeed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Inclement weather, with possible snow, was forecast in normally Republican upstate New York.

The weather outlook was bad throughout the state. A cold rain held down the early balloting in New York. Intermittent rain and cloudy skies were forecast for the rest of the day in the preponderantly Democratic city. In Upstate New York, where the greatest Republican strength lies, it was snowing early today in several sections and intermittent snow was forecast for all upstate areas.

FROM 5 TO 5½ million citizens are expected to turn out. Voting machines are being used throughout the state. The polling hours are from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Dewey, twice the GOP presidential nominee, did not seek re-election.

Ives, author of anti-discrimination legislation, is a firm supporter of President Eisenhower.

Harriman hews to the philosophy of the New and Fair Deals in which he held high posts such as ambassador to Moscow and secretary of Commerce.

The outcome of their bitterly fought campaign is in doubt.

THE REPUBLICANS won easily four years ago when Dewey defeated Rep. Walter A. Lynch by 572,668 votes out of about five million cast.

They confidently nominated Ives, one of their best vote getters, to take up the reins held for 12 years by Dewey — but statewide newspaper polls indicated a victory for Harriman.

Whoever wins will be in a prominent position in the national political panorama as chief executive of the nation's most populous state, one that swings 45 electoral votes in presidential elections.

The voters also will elect 43 congressmen. No U. S. Senate seat is at stake here.

Also being elected are a lieutenant governor, state comptroller, attorney general, state legislators and several judges.

AMONG THEM up for election with the gubernatorial candidates are:

For lieutenant governor—State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, Republican, and Bronx County Dist. Atty. George B. DeLuca, Democratic-Liberal.

For attorney general—Rep. Jacbo K. Javits, Manhattan Republican, and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Manhattan Democratic-Liberal.

Comptroller—Onondago County Dist. Atty. Frank Del Vecchio, Republican, and New York City Board of Education President Arthur Levitt, Democratic-Liberal.

THE VOTE of the Liberal party, backing Harriman and most of his running mates, could decide the election, if the margin between the Republicans and Democrats is thin.

Both candidates for governor campaigned right up to midnight last night.

Ives, in a 6 a. m. to midnight television-radio marathon, appeared on 15 programs at almost hourly intervals.

Harriman, starting shortly after dawn, made an airplane tour to six upstate cities and finished up making three television-radio speeches in New York city.

Each side said these strenuous measures reflected desperation by the other in an effort to stave off defeat.

4 Bombs Drop On Chinese Isles

Taipeh, Formosa, Nov. 2 (AP)—Chinese Reds today delivered the latest blow in the new vest pocket war flaring up around the Nationalist-held Tachen Islands—an afternoon air attack in which four bombs were dropped.

It was noteworthy not because of its size but because it was the second straight day Communist planes have attacked Nationalist territory.

THE RED BOMBERS hit Yikiangshan (one river mountain) island after a pre-dawn Nationalist air raid on Toumen (head gate) island. The islands are about five miles apart and lie close to the Chekiang coast, northwest of the Tachens and some 100 miles north of Formosa.

Press reports said Nationalist warships also hit Toumen today. Official sources refused to confirm the action, but a defense ministry official said it was "very probable because any of our ships in the area would naturally take part."

Communist planes triggered the latest firing in the vest pocket war when they bombed the Tachens Monday.

PEIPING RADIO said the Red aircraft sent many military targets up in flames and set fire to a warship anchored off the islands. Peiping also said all its planes returned safely despite "thick rings of anti-aircraft fire."

The Nationalists claimed they shot down one of the raiders, but didn't say whether it was one of the 9TU2 bombers or one of the escorting MIG15s or LA11 fighters.

The retaliatory Nationalist raid likewise brought out conflicting claims. Peiping said two Nationalist planes were shot down, the Nationalists said all their planes returned safely.

American policy toward the offshore island has been to keep the Reds guessing as to what might happen if the Communists attack the outposts.

The new Red air actions in the Tachen area may be an attempt to find out.

Two Police Hurt Making Arrest

Two policemen received minor injuries and a third man was admitted to Benedictine Hospital with lacerations of the head in a "scuffle" late yesterday afternoon in the hallway of a home at 113 Fair street.

Police were dispatched to the home after a report was received at headquarters that a man, William (Pat) Andrews, of that address, had become "violent."

IN AN EFFORT to subdue Andrews who, police said, had "wrecked" the hallway, Officer Charles McCullough suffered an abrasion of the left wrist and a wrenched back and Officer Julius Glassman a strained right arm. McCullough was treated by a private physician.

Also assisting were Officers Bernard Fowler and Floyd Krom and Assistant Jailer Delbert J. Sapp of the Ulster county sheriff's office.

A wrist watch worn by McCullough, lost in the scuffle and later found again, was reported badly damaged. The crown from a watch worn by Glassman was sheared off.

Andrews was arrested by Officer Fowler on a charge of second degree assault.

Operator Is Injured

Frank Reynolds, a bulldozer operator employed by the Arborio company on the Thruway at Tillson, was injured at 8:15 a. m. today when the machine he was operating overturned. A representative of the company reported Reynolds had apparently been thrown clear of the machine. He sustained injuries and was taken to Kingston Hospital. His condition was reported as not serious. Reynolds is not a local man, it was stated.

Man Is Held in Slaying Of Pennsylvania Child

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 2 (AP)—A former merchant marine sailor is in jail today under heavy guard in connection with the slaying of a beautiful 6-year-old girl whose body was found near her tattered Halloween costume a few hours after she went on a "trick or treat" tour.

Dist. Atty. Fred Fees announced the arrest of Harry Gossard, 39, shortly after last midnight.

He said Gossard "has been booked on suspicion" in connection with the slaying of Karen Mauk last Thursday night.

The district attorney added: "We expect to file a charge against him later today."

Fees said Gossard was unemployed and lived only a block away from the Maul home in nearby Conemaugh, a community of about 8,000 on the outskirts of Johnstown.

STATE POLICE SAID Gossard's auto has been impounded for use as possible evidence. They added that tire marks were discovered near the gruesome cemetery scene where Karen's unclothed body was found early last Friday about six hours after

Batista Wins Cuban Voting

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 2 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Fulgencio Batista and his supporters celebrated victory early today as election returns gave the former army sergeant a commanding lead in his presidential race against the opponent who quit the fight at the 11th hour.

The official count reported at 2 a. m. today by the electoral tribunal showed Batista with 106,698 votes from yesterday's balloting to 12,950 for ex-President Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau withdrew from the contest Sunday night and ordered his followers to boycott the election. The official returns were from only 647 of the 8,000 polling places.

SEMI-OFFICIAL returns announced at the same time from army headquarters credited Batista with 954,857 votes to 135,417 for Grau. This count was based on 6,017 polling places, or 73 per cent of the districts.

Army headquarters said Batista was carrying with him to victory most of the candidates of his four-party coalition for congressional, provincial and municipal offices, including vice-presidential candidate Rafael Guas Inclan.

The electoral tribunal announced that an estimated 10 per cent of the ballots cast in

Local Balloting Goes On Steadily

Hundreds of Kingston's 13,189 eligible voters were flowing steadily into the city's 20 polls this morning to elect a governor and other state officials.

The number of eligible voters in Kingston is the lowest in the past five years.

A SPOT CHECK of polling places indicated that voting was about average.

Ward 11, with 1,065 eligible voters, reported that 250 had cast their ballots by 9:30 a. m.

By 10 a. m. 181 persons had voted in Ward 2, District 1. There are 929 eligible voters in this district.

SEVENTY-SEVEN had voted by 9:30 a. m. in Ward 4, District 1, 70 by 9:15 a. m. in Ward 6, District 2 and 61 in Ward 7, District 2.

Lt. William Messing of the Kingston Police Department said he visited the polls in Ward 12 at opening time and found he was Number 53 in line.

Polls will be open until 7 p. m.

Recess Is Taken in Trial; Manning Decision Waits

Cleveland, Nov. 2 (AP)—An Election Day recess today delayed a decision on whether James R. Manning, a convicted sex offender, should be removed from the jury picked for the Sheppard murder trial.

Informed sources, however, indicated Manning would be replaced by an alternate juror and the trial would proceed. A declaration of a mistrial was not thought likely.

The controversy swirling about the real estate salesman the past two days has almost overshadowed the real issue in the trial: Did Osteopath Samuel H. Sheppard, 30, beat his pregnant wife to death last July 4 after a purported affair with Susan Hayes, a pretty hospital technician?

From the very moment it opened on Oct. 18 the trial has been characterized by a series of legal gymnastics by both the prosecution and defense.

The latest problem came to a head yesterday when Assistant Prosecutor John J. Mahon demanded that Manning be tossed off the jury on grounds he failed to reveal a crime in his background. Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan immediately demanded proof that Manning was a sex offender.

WITH THAT, the trial was recessed until tomorrow morning.

While Judge Edward Blythin would not speculate on what course the trial will take Monday, it was believed he would refer to this Ohio law in deciding the Manning question:

"* * * if before the final submission of the case to the jury, a juror becomes incapacitated or

Prince's Body Found in Iran

Tehran, Iran, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Iranian court announced today that the body of Prince Ali Reza, the Shah's brother, had been found near the wreckage of his aircraft in mountainous country about 36 miles northeast of Tehran.

The 32-year-old prince had been missing since late Wednesday on a flight in his private plane to the Iranian capital from north Iran, near the Soviet border.

Palace sources said the other two occupants of the plane—the prince's private pilot, Maj. Amin Pour, and a sick peasant Ali Reza was bringing to Tehran for treatment—also were killed in the crash.

The wreckage and the three bodies nearby were found by soldiers patroling in the area, near Dehbala.

Saugerties Voters Are Out

Reports at 11 a. m. today from Saugerties indicated voting above average in the village, while in township portions, such as Malden, Quarryville and West Saugerties balloting was reported " heavier than usual."

FBI Seizes Martha Stone, Sought as Red Since '51

New York, Nov. 2 (AP) —FBI agents have arrested a woman they identified as Martha Stone, 44, a Communist party worker since her teens and a Red underground leader since 1951.

The woman was seized in a Bronx restaurant, the FBI said yesterday. It said she had been sought since her indictment last June 17 by a Federal Grand Jury in New Haven, Conn.

She is charged with being a member of a group which teaches and advocates overthrow of the U. S. government by force or violence. If convicted, she could get 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both.

The woman will be arraigned in New Haven Federal Court, possibly today or within the next day or so, said U. S. Atty. Simon S. Cohen in New Haven.

The FBI said Martha Stone was for years an open Communist leader in New Jersey but in 1951 went underground and had hidden behind assumed names ever since. Agents said she failed to come forward and reveal her whereabouts even when an auto accident hospitalized her 6-year-old son in November, 1951.

That same year, on Nov. 1, her father, Julius Stone, died in Brooklyn, the FBI said. Again she refused to let family ties bring her out of hiding, and did not attend the funeral.

In Paterson, N. J., her husband, Emil Asher, scoffed at reports that she was an underground leader living in hiding. It was all "a lot of nonsense," he told newsmen.

Asher said his wife's job as chairman of the New Jersey Communist party took her away from home frequently. He said he would hire a lawyer to defend her.

Martha Stone married Asher, a dyer in a textile plant, in 1941 but continued to be known by her maiden name.

Close Race Is Expected In Connecticut Election

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 2 (AP) —A close gubernatorial race between incumbent John Lodge, Republican, and former U. S. Rep. Abraham A. Ribicoff, Democrat, was seen by many observers today for this state.

An unusually heavy vote for an off-year election—the state has 1,200,000 registered voters—was expected. Polls in the state's 169 towns (the entire Connecticut voting unit) open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Lodge is seeking a second four-year term.

Democrats hoped to win three of six seats in the U. S. House in addition to electing Ribicoff.

The Republicans, who now hold five of the six congressional seats, contend they'll retain their grip in the House and reelect Lodge and the state administration.

Two of Connecticut's congressional districts were being watched for possible trends and since the entire state uses voting machines returns are expected fairly early tonight.

Connecticut's second and third districts, now held my Republicans are considered keys to a trend.

In Connecticut's second district, which comprises the four eastern counties in the state, incumbent Republican Horace Seely-Brown Jr. opposes Demo-

The wreckage and the three bodies nearby were found by soldiers patroling in the area, near Dehbala.

Saugerties Voters Are Out

Reports at 11 a. m. today from Saugerties indicated voting above average in the village, while in township portions, such as Malden, Quarryville and West Saugerties balloting was reported " heavier than usual."

FBI Seizes Martha Stone, Sought as Red Since '51

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—FBI agents have arrested a woman they identified as Martha Stone, 44, a Communist party worker since her teens and a Red underground leader since 1951.

The woman was seized in a Bronx restaurant, the FBI said yesterday. It said she had been sought since her indictment last June 17 by a Federal Grand Jury in New Haven, Conn.

She is charged with being a member of a group which teaches and advocates overthrow of the U. S. government by force or violence. If convicted, she could get 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both.

The woman will be arraigned in New Haven Federal Court, possibly today or within the next day or so, said U. S. Atty. Simon S. Cohen in New Haven.

The FBI said Martha Stone was for years an open Communist leader in New Jersey but in 1951 went underground and had hidden behind assumed names ever since. Agents said she failed to come forward and reveal her whereabouts even when an auto accident hospitalized her 6-year-old son in November, 1951.

That same year, on Nov. 1, her father, Julius Stone, died in Brooklyn, the FBI said. Again she refused to let family ties bring her out of hiding, and did not attend the funeral.

In Paterson, N. J., her husband, Emil Asher, scoffed at reports that she was an underground leader living in hiding. It was all "a lot of nonsense," he told newsmen.

Asher said his wife's job as chairman of the New Jersey Communist party took her away from home frequently. He said he would hire a lawyer to defend her.

Martha Stone married Asher, a dyer in a textile plant, in 1941 but continued to be known by her maiden name.

Local Balloting Goes On Steadily

Hundreds of Kingston's 13,189 eligible voters were flowing steadily into the city's 20 polls this morning to elect a governor and other state officials.

The number of eligible voters in Kingston is the lowest in the past five years.

A SPOT CHECK of polling places indicated that voting was about average.

Ward 11, with 1,065 eligible voters, reported that 250 had cast their ballots by 9:30 a. m.

By 10 a. m. 181 persons had voted in Ward 2, District 1. There are 929 eligible voters in this district.

SEVENTY-SEVEN had voted by 9:30 a. m. in Ward 4, District 1, 70 by 9:15 a. m. in Ward 6, District 2 and 61 in Ward 7, District 2.

Lt. William Messing of the Kingston Police Department said he visited the polls in Ward 12 at opening time and found he was Number 53 in line.

Polls will be open until 7 p. m.

Batista Wins Cuban Voting

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 2 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Fulgencio Batista and his supporters celebrated victory early today as election returns gave the former army sergeant a commanding lead in his presidential race against the opponent who quit the fight at the 11th hour.

The official count reported at 2 a. m. today by the electoral tribunal showed Batista with 106,698 votes from yesterday's balloting to 12,950 for ex-President Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau withdrew from the contest Sunday night and ordered his followers to boycott the election. The official returns were from only 647 of the 8,000 polling places.

SEMI-OFFICIAL returns announced at the same time from army headquarters credited Batista with 954,857 votes to 135,417 for Grau. This count was based on 6,017 polling places, or 73 per cent of the districts.

Army headquarters said Batista was carrying with him to victory most of the candidates of his four-party coalition for congressional, provincial and municipal offices, including vice-presidential candidate Rafael Guas Inclan.

The electoral tribunal announced that an estimated 10 per cent of the ballots cast in

Man Is Held in Slaying Of Pennsylvania Child

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 2 (AP)—A former merchant marine sailor is in jail today under heavy guard in connection with the slaying of a beautiful 6-year-old girl whose body was found near her tattered Halloween costume a few hours after she went on a "trick or treat" tour.

Dist. Atty. Fred Fees announced the arrest of Harry Gossard, 39, shortly after last midnight.

He said Gossard "has been booked on suspicion" in connection with the slaying of Karen Mauk last Thursday night.

The district attorney added: "We expect to file a charge against him later today."

Fees said Gossard was unemployed and lived only a block away from the Maul home in nearby Conemaugh, a community of about 8,000 on the outskirts of Johnstown.

STATE POLICE SAID Gossard's auto has been impounded for use as possible evidence. They added that tire marks were discovered near the gruesome cemetery scene where Karen's unclothed body was found early last Friday about six hours after

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 2 (AP)—A close gubernatorial race between incumbent John Lodge, Republican, and former U. S. Rep. Abraham A. Ribicoff, Democrat, was seen by many observers today for this state.

An unusually heavy vote for an off-year election—the state has 1,200,000 registered voters—was expected. Polls in the state's 169 towns (the entire Connecticut voting unit) open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Lodge is seeking a second four-year term.

Democrats hoped to win three of six seats in the U. S. House in addition to electing Ribicoff.

The Republicans, who now hold five of the six congressional seats, contend they'll retain their grip in the House and reelect Lodge and the state administration.

Two of Connecticut's congressional districts were being watched for possible trends and since the entire state uses voting machines returns are expected fairly early tonight.

Connecticut's second and third districts, now held my Republicans are considered keys to a trend.

In Connecticut's second district, which comprises the four eastern counties in the state, incumbent Republican Horace Seely-Brown Jr. opposes Demo-

"Couldn't you arrange to have your jam session while I'm at work?"

Says Signs Multiply

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey says "reports of improving business and employment are multiplying." Humphrey issued this statement last night, on the eve of the congressional elections in which the economic state of the nation figures as an issue. Humphrey said fresh evidence "indicates that employment, incomes and trade in 1955 will be at even higher levels than in 1954, the best peacetime year in history."

Treasurer Appointed

Albany, Nov. 2 (AP)—Gov. Dewey has appointed Paul Lundelius of Mahopac as Putnam county treasurer to serve out the unexpired portion of the term of Orson H. Lyon, who has resigned. The appointment was announced by the governor's office yesterday. Lyon's term runs until Jan. 1. Lundelius, 46, the Republican candidate for county treasurer, has served as clerk of the county board of supervisors.

Taylor Commands Ground Forces

Seoul, Nov. 2 (AP)—The United States, streamlining its top command in the Far East "to improve its stategic position," today named Gen Maxwell B. Taylor to head all ground forces in Japan, Okinawa and Korea.

Taylor, the present U. S. 8th Army commander here, will assume his new duties Nov. 20.

Almost simultaneously, the army said the U. S. 9th Corps Headquarters, at reduced strength, will be moved from Korea to Japan this month.

Lt. Gen Thomas F. Hickey will command the 9th. He is now deputy commanding general of army forces Far East at Camp Zama in Japan.

Taylor's new job still leaves him directly under Gen. John E. Hull, who will retain command of all U. S. military forces in the Far East—army, navy and air force.

Taylor will combine the staffs of the headquarters of army forces Far East at Camp Zama, Japan, and the 8th Army in Seoul into a single command.

He said the regrouping has four purposes:

Unity of command, ease and quickness of adjusting U. S. forces in the Far East, economy of personnel and readiness and easy availability of forces.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Costume, Window Winners Named

Woodstock, Nov. 2—Ghosts and goblins, witches and skeletons began trudging at dusk in the direction of the Town Hall Saturday night to attend festivities provided by the Woodstock Recreation Committee. Most of the young Halloween sprites gathered at the Recreation Field at 7 p. m., and marched through the village, the parade led by Cpl. Ray Dunn. Guarding the rear lines of the paraders was George Francis with the Woodstock Garage truck. Also on hand to send the paraders on their way were George Haythorne, fire chief who manned the floodlights loaned by the Woodstock Fire Company No. 1, and Constables Clarence Snyder and Charles Farley.

As the costumed throng made its way into the Town Hall, gasps of delight greeted the spectacle of the familiar auditorium transformed into an October vale flooded with golden sunlight. Everywhere were cornstalks, maple boughs along the walls, pumpkins and crepe paper streamers. The colorful background for the party had been created by Joseph Hilton and Joseph Forno.

Judging the costumes were Mrs. Theodore Lee, Mrs. Jules Viglielmo and Mrs. Rita Bird. They awarded prizes to Sheri Herbert, most comical; Linda Cousins, most appropriate; Mark Wetterau, most original, made by his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Wetterau; Mimi Sife, prettiest; Ben Johnson, Jr., ugliest and Ingie Guston, best effort shown.

Earlier, many of Woodstock's young artists went to work on the store windows and Judges Kurt Sluizer, John McClellan and Mrs. Edgar Bauman selected the following winners:

Robert Foster and Atlee Rapp, Mower's Food Market, first; Robert Kilpatrick and Patty Rowan, Houst's, second; Edith Heckeroth, Gladys Terwilliger and Frieda Sander, Bonnie's, third.

Honorable mentions went to Dot Watson and Pam Dendy, Nook; Gretchen Wetterau, Robert Wickman and Mikie Norman, Woodstock Jewelers; Barbara Mower and Dorothy Haeussler, Nook; Jean Hasbrouck and Virginia Modjeska, Bake Shop; Kathryn Christian and Doris Mellin, Stowell's; Sue McClellan and Sue Gurland, Woodstock Floor Covering; Debbie Leshen, Allen's Electric; Bonnie Wilbur and Marilyn Wolven, Gift Box; Selma Dendy and Barbara Longyear, Gift Box; George Klippel, Sports Shop; Suzanne Jorgensen, Woodstock Food Market; Sharon Graver and Elaine Gordon, Allen's Electric; Wayne Underhill, Paul Greenberg and Douglas Freer, Mowers; and Jean Wilson and Carl Ann Hafty, Gift Box. In the high school group for honorable mentions were Sharon DeLisio and Anne Russell, Studio Card and Gift Box.

Winners in the pumpkin face contest, judged by Mrs. Bauman and John Pike, included:

Joe Raymond, kindergarten; Linda Cousins and Art Vos, first grade; Robert Walker, second; Marjory Watson, third; Robin Cantine, fourth; Sue Lynn Gurland, fifth; Dorothy Watson, sixth; Jean Cousins and Judy Rapp, seventh and Paul Greenberg, eighth.

Among the notables attending the festivities were Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson, Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Clayton Harder, town clerk; Justice of the Peace Joseph Forno, Walter Van Wagenen, school principal; Mervin Doremus and Birge Simmons of Fire Company No. 1, Mrs. Charles Rapp and Mrs. Inger Walker were in charge of the parade.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Nov. 2—Dr. and Mrs. Hans J. Cohn entertained at a family day at their home Sunday, Oct. 24. It was the first time in 20 years that the entire family had assembled. The occasion was the visit of Mrs. Cohn's youngest sister who lives in Israel. Guests came from Rochester, New Rochelle, Philadelphia, Morton, Pa., and Woodstock, Va.

Former Kingston Man Retires as Fuel Oil Manager

MARKS BLANKFIELD, formerly of Kingston, southern division manager of the heavy fuel oil department for the American Oil Company for the last 10 years, retired today on pension after 35 years service.

Born in Kingston, Blankfield attended public schools here and later graduated from Spencer Business College where he received a business administration degree.

Blankfield joined the company in Nov. 1919, as a clerk and gauger at its Jacksonville, Fla., Terminal and six years later was named superintendent. In March, 1939, he was appointed fuel oil department representative, and in October, 1944, was promoted to his present position. In the years between 1911 and 1919, he had been employed by three different railroads on the east coast.

Blankfield and his wife, the former Jessie Rambo, have three children, Leon P., Jean B., and Marks R.

APPOINTED to succeed Blankfield is John H. Corry. Corry joined the company in 1946 as assistant superintendent of the Jacksonville Terminal. In 1949 he transferred to the heavy fuel oil department and became sales representative in the southeastern states. He continued in that position until his present promotion.

Taylor Commands Ground Forces

Seoul, Nov. 2 (AP)—The United States, streamlining its top command in the Far East "to improve its stategic position," today named Gen Maxwell B. Taylor to head all ground forces in Japan, Okinawa and Korea.

Taylor, the present U. S. 8th Army commander here, will assume his new duties Nov. 20.

Almost simultaneously, the army said the U. S. 9th Corps Headquarters, at reduced strength, will be moved from Korea to Japan this month.

Lt. Gen Thomas F. Hickey will command the 9th. He is now deputy commanding general of army forces Far East at Camp Zama in Japan.

Taylor's new job still leaves him directly under Gen. John E. Hull, who will retain command of all U. S. military forces in the Far East—army, navy and air force.

NUISANCE MAIL

A raise in postal rates may be necessary and inevitable. But if it is needed, citizens have a right to insist that every economy measure be taken to assure that a dollar's worth of service is given for every dollar spent.

One thing that might be done to reduce the cost of handling mail would be to find a way to prohibit or discourage "nuisance" mail. That is mail from advertisers who do not even take the trouble to get the names of the people to whom they send their material. Under present rules all they need do is address what they mail to "Resident" or "Boxholder" at a certain address. Householders can attest that a considerable portion of their mail is advertising matter frequently of the sort in which they have no interest at all.

This means heavier bags for mailmen and slower service for people on mail routes. It means extra handling and work in sorting mail, to say nothing of the annoyance to people who find their mailboxes crammed with material they do not want.

It would be well for Congress, when its members consider the problems of the postal department, to give some attention to this matter. Cutting down on nuisance mail would not mean eliminating the deficit. But government agencies cannot afford to turn their back on any opportunity to reduce costs.

BRINGING BACK THE PAST

Everyone has heard of the old-time country store, with its cracker barrel, around which the village worthies gathered, and where their discussions made public sentiment; with its potbellied stove, and merchandise hung from the rafters. Few city dwellers, however, have ever seen one. They will eventually be able to do so if they go to Southampton, Long Island. There the local Colonial Society is in the process of setting up a colonial village. The old-style church with its narrow seats and short straight backs that rammed into the spine, the one-room school and other types of 18th-century buildings, all will be there.

It should prove both interesting and illuminating. Southampton is not the first community to undertake this type of restoration. Mystic, Conn., and Sturbridge, Mass., have already done something of the sort. This does not make the Southampton project unnecessary. There should be a number of such restorations, so located that visiting them will be easy. The colonial Americans made a great contribution to the development of the nation. Anything that makes for a clearer realization of this is worth setting up and going to see.

WELCOMING ADENAUER

Americans are united in their welcome to Konrad Adenauer, Chancellor of West Germany and world statesman.

In the short years since the defeat of Hitler, Chancellor Adenauer has led his people back into the sunlight of respectability. Despite the crushing defeat his people suffered, despite the Nazi poison which survived Hitler's downfall, despite the fact that his country has been divided by its conquerors, he has succeeded in uniting a considerable portion of his people in an effort to create a real democracy.

At the end of World War II there were many who abandoned any hope of rehabilitating the people of Germany. Adenauer's leadership has demonstrated how wrong they were. With the help of the United States he has managed to stave off both the Communists and the Neo-Nazis, both of whom wanted desperately to see him fall.

Chancellor Adenauer could not have scheduled a more propitious moment for his visit. The negotiations in London and Paris have brought West German sovereignty and partnership in the alliance to keep Europe secure very near to reality. It is proper that the man who has played such a large part in the success of those negotiations should pay us a neighborly visit. It will be good if greater mutual understanding between our two peoples results.

THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY

If Western Europe can find a way to a voluntary community of nations, it may be possible to build a force capable of withstanding the Communist menace. Many efforts have been made in European history to achieve such a union by coercion, by wars and by the numerous agreements that follow wars. To succeed, however, surely in our era, such a union must be voluntary and must be based on acknowledged self-interest.

Most of the first steps in this direction have failed, but the comparative success of the European Community for Coal and Steel can give hope that something substantial may be achieved in other fields until Western Europe has found a workable formula which limits sovereignty in particular instances while not violating nationalistic pride in general. The difficulties are stupendous but in the face of the Russian menace, they ought not to be insuperable. Fear can accomplish much when it is real and while many Europeans underestimate the Russians on the assumption that the United States will always defend Europe, most of them know what Communist infiltration has done in their countries.

The European Community for Coal and Steel is, in effect, a government, operating with federal powers on behalf of Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands. It might be recalled that the Belgian Relief, which Herbert Hoover operated during World War I, was permitted many privileges of a separate government until the United States entered the war, but that was a matter of convenience, not a voluntary decision to solve the basic economic problem of about 160,000,000 people, which is what the European Community involves.

This European Community, which grew out of the Schuman Plan, operates within its particular jurisdiction with sovereign powers, including Executive, Legislative and Judicial branches. It crosses national boundaries as though they did not exist. Limited to coal, iron and steel at present, its organization could be expanded and its method applied to other commodities and even to other problems. If the plan can work for coal and steel, why not for electrification or communications? Why not in many non-political fields?

Western Europe is an area of comparatively small countries which now face mass populations in the United States, and the Soviet Universal State, which includes China and may, someday, include India by cordial affiliation. While the size of population is not the sole criterion upon which to base a judgment as to the strength of an area, the rapidity of industrialization in the Soviet Universal State must be considered as altering the world economic position of Western Europe. Russia now produces about 38,000,000 tons of steel a year, a figure that is enormous by European standards. Coolies can be taught to operate modern, automatic machinery as competently as highly-skilled handicraftsmen, whose skills are lost in the battle with precision machinery. The machine has, in fact, altered the relationship between exporting and importing countries.

In the struggle for survival, the European nations will be forced to reconsider their positions in a world where the Flemish weaver's wares are only for luxuries because the spindle and the loom can turn out goods anywhere, attended by almost anyone, at varying labor costs. Years ago, Manchester ceased to be a match for Osaka, and now every country seeks industrialization, the Egypt of Nasser, I presume, planning to surround the pyramids with cotton mills. While certain countries continue to specialize, the fact that once machines are available anything can be made anywhere cannot be ignored.

If West Europe can become an industrial entity of 160,000,000 people, without customs barriers and varieties of money, without import and export quotas, it could develop the industrial capacity and the purchasing power of the United States. The European Community for Coal and Steel is a first fairly successful step in that direction. It will be watched with the greatest interest, because its success could mean a strengthening of our own country in its struggle against the Soviet Universal State. Whatever is done, in the diplomatic or economic fields, to lessen nationalistic tensions or to overcome historic prejudices which, if they ever served, no longer have any virtue, must be regarded as a tremendous step forward. Such a union as the European Community may even lower our bill for European aid.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE LUNG

There is no doubt that the present status of cancer of the lung is extremely depressing. At best, the rate of cure (5 years of more) is not more than 5 per cent and that figure is what the most experienced surgeons in the country are accomplishing. The general picture is about as follows: two-thirds to three-quarters of all patients are beyond help when they are first seen. From a third to a half of those explored have growths which cannot be removed. Well over half who do have growths removed have this done to help their symptoms be less painful and not in the hope of cure.

Cancer of the lung is a disease of increasing frequency. In 1912, a research physician was able to collect from the world medical literature only 374 cases. In 1950, there were 21,219 deaths from this cause recorded in the United States alone. This alarming increase has made this disease the responsibility of the entire medical profession. It is no longer the sole responsibility of the internist (specialist in internal medicine) and the surgeon. Every physician, no matter what his field of practice, must learn to suspect it in every patient of the cancer age who consults him. Cancer of the lung is predominantly a disease of middle and later life but it is increasing much more than could be accounted for by the general increase in the number of people of cancer age.

There are three symptoms of cancer of the lung to which too little attention is being given. They are:

1.—"Cigarette" cough, particularly the cough which appears for the first time in middle life, after years of smoking, or the cough which changes in character after it has been present for years. The patient makes some offhand excuse for the cough and the physician too often passes it over.

2.—Pneumonia. This illness is usually controlled, quite properly, with penicillin but it is not usually followed up. The first instinct of the physician is to relieve the symptoms for which he has been consulted but this tendency must be sternly resisted in the male patient over 40 with symptoms referable to the chest. Coughs, hoarseness, asthma, and even the common cold must be investigated before they are treated. Too often patients respond so very well to the anti-biotic drugs, such as penicillin, that they slip away from observation until it is too late to help them.

3.—Lung abscess. This is a quite common symptom in a cancer of the lung and sometimes the earliest and yet, as mentioned above, it may be treated quite successfully (at first) by the antibiotics and so considered a simple lung abscess and not suspected of being cancer of the lung unless tests are made with cancer in mind.

Just Imitating His Older Brothers

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — This year's elections will probably be given more of a post-mortem analysis than any except 1948, when all the experts were wrong. For the factors influencing the election result this year lend themselves to many interpretations and alibis.

The easy explanation for what happens in any mid-term election is that local issues and personalities decide the outcome.

This year, however, the Republicans decided to pitch their appeal on support for their popular President. And President Eisenhower intended to pitch the campaign on the GOP two-year record.

It is a good record, as congressional records go.

Government expenses have been reduced. Record tax cuts have gone into effect. Tax legislation generally has been overhauled. Inflation has been checked. The cost of living hasn't been brought down, but it hasn't been allowed to spiral upward. For the first time in 20 years, the government has a fiscal policy that makes sense.

THE INTERNATIONAL situation looks better than it has in a long time. Fighting has stopped in Korea and Indo-China. A Southeast Asia pact has been negotiated. Trieste, Suez Canal and Iranian oil crises have been settled. In Europe, the new series of agreements to rearm Western Germany, give her independence and admit her to North Atlantic Treaty Organization are really tremendous achievements.

On points alone, the Republican administration would seem to have a big advantage, deserving to win control of Congress for another two years to tidy up the place for 1956.

But the Democrats naturally showed no enthusiasm for talking about Republican accomplishments. They wanted to campaign on what they considered the Republican failures.

So the issues became C. E. Wilson's hound-dog, unemployment in cities, the Dixon-Yates contract in the Tennessee Valley, lower dairy prices in the northwest, drouth relief that was considered inadequate in the southwest, and the new farm legislation.

TO MEET THIS CHALLENGE, the Republicans started throwing wild punches all over the lot. Though Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy had been temporarily silenced by the Watkins committee recommendation for Senate censure, the Republicans again attempted to make charges of communism in past Democratic administrations the principal issue of the campaign.

What should have been the real issues of the campaign were therefore thrust further into the background. This also tended to fuzz up the national factors normally influencing mid-term elections.

Historically, the party in power has nearly always lost congressional seats in a mid-term election.

Historically, there are always changes of political control after a depression. But this has been true only when there has been greater distress than now found in some farm and industrial areas.

Historically, the Democratic vote is higher in presidential election years than in mid-term election years. The decline amounts to about seven or eight per cent of the total vote.

This would indicate a possible Democratic loss of 25 to 30 seats in the House of Representatives. But this may be offset this year by polls which show that the 1952 Republican strength of 55 per cent of the vote has declined to 50 per cent in the industrial northeast.

Historically, when there is a small turnout at the polls, the advantage goes to the Republicans since by actual count there are more registered Democrats than registered Republicans.

THESE ARE THE FACTORS, says Louis H. Bean, author of "How to Predict Elections" and "The Mid-Term Battle," which have to be taken into consideration for estimates on this year's outcome.

Dr. Bean, a keen analyst of political statistics, used a more precise formula to make his estimate that the Democrats might gain as many as 43 to 46 seats in the lower House of Congress. This was based on the percentage increase of Democratic votes, 1950 to 1954, in the early Maine and Alaska elections.

Making a similar prediction on the Senate outcome was more difficult since most of the seats which Republicans had to win to retain control were in the more Republican northern U. S. But Statistician Bean foresaw the possibility of the Democrats winning control of the Senate by a couple of seats. He didn't dignify this as a prediction. He put it down as a guess.

Further to play it safe, Dr. Bean admitted that all calculations could be overthrown in the last week of the campaign by the concerted Republican drive to make 1954's mid-term election an equivalent to the presidential year election of 1952.

No Satisfactory Reports Given on Why Voters Shunned Congressional Elections

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nobody has explained satisfactorily why so many people didn't vote in the congressional election.

The latest estimate that about 40,000,000 went to the polls out of a total eligible vote of 100,000,000 is one of the lowest percentages in any of the democracies in the world.

The only plausible explanation is that which has been made in other years — that the people were not particularly excited over the issues or did not see clearly that anything critical for them was involved.

It is always contended by the politicians that, if there's economic discontent or some other emotional issue, a protest will be recorded. But evidently there wasn't enough discontent this time to persuade any unusual number of voters to go to the polls.

Compared to other countries, the United States is prosperous. The American people have a high standard of living, with creature comforts of all kinds. Certainly there is no evidence of any starvation or suffering. Even the hardship of unemployment is cushioned by the payment of unemployment compensation.

As for personal income, it is about the highest in history. This leads to the conclusion that contentment does not bring out the voters and that the small minority, relatively speaking, which registered and went to the polls reflects the general satisfaction with things as they are.

Certainly so far as the war-or-peace situation is concerned, the world outlook lately has been better than it has been in months. The business situation, which seemed for a while to be slipping downward, has been getting better and the figures this week show steel production, for instance, higher than it has been at any time this year.

Local issues dominate when national issues are not particularly stimulating. Coincident with the elections for members of Congress there were many contests for county or state offices. These conceivably could bring out the voters who, while at the ballot box, would vote for the congressional tickets. But this year, with the exception of New York state, there were few contests for governor that attracted attention beyond the borders of a given state.

The rule that the party in power wears out its welcome and that the people demand a change has affected many a local election but, on the other hand, there are instances where the states have remained in the same column for decades at a time. In such states there is a tendency for the opposition party to be weak in organizational power, and everybody takes the outcome for granted and little reason is seen for going to the polls. Such an approach is mistaken but the low percentage of voting occurs just the same, especially in the southern states.

By and large the American people have not been persuaded that voting is as important as it really is. Control of Congress by one party or the other doesn't seem to the average man to mean much by way of change. Yet, in the long run, the political complexion of Congress tends to fix the pattern for the election of a president and sometimes for a rather radical change in national policy.

Valiant efforts were made this time to impress the citizenry with the importance of voting. The television and radio as well as the press presented some non-partisan appeals designed to persuade people to vote. One major difficulty is the need for registration weeks in advance of an election and before either party gets going and brings out the importance of the issues. Another restraint is related to the matter of standing in long lines waiting for a chance to register. Some more expeditious scheme, such as registration by mail with a penalty for fraud, and some method of verifying the signatures after election to detect any possible fraud might be a solution.

Some states, of course, have permanent registration so that there is no need to go but once to register. But even in such states the number who do vote is sometimes very low.

So the answer hasn't yet been found—and maybe in a sense those who stay at home do vote. There are some analysts who argue that those who don't vote would divide in about the same proportion as those who do. But this has been proved fallacious in some after-elections studies. For evidently the discontented voters go to the polls and many of those who are content with the existing administration in the national, state or city government don't vote. It's a matter that probably will never be settled till there's compulsory voting, if indeed that is ever adopted, and American sentiment does not favor it.

Traffic Signal
140 Main Street
Kingston, N. Y.
November 1, 1954

Editor, The Freeman

This is my first attempt at writing to a newspaper for any reason, although my husband and I have long considered doing so as we have witnessed many narrow escapes from serious accident at the corner of Washington avenue and Main street.

Last evening the screaming of brakes told us that again cars had clashed at that corner and apparently serious accident was only narrowly avoided.

The cars travel very fast on Washington avenue and equally so on Main street and we have seen the Stop sign often ignored. Traffic will no doubt continue heavy as both ends of Washington avenue lead to busy roads and Main street is also heavily traveled.

We feel, as do many of our neighbors, that a traffic signal is a very real need at that corner as crossing there for car or pedestrian is very difficult.

Sincerely,
MRS. SCOTT O. VINING

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Somebody, and I suspect President Eisenhower, is trying to build up a glossy reputation for the Central Intelligence Agency. This evil outfit, created under Truman, whereas I recently reported that it began in Moosejaw's reign, is a sinister, dangerous layout largely in the hands of amateurs not all of whom bear reassuring reputations. People who change wives or husbands with nimble ease are not as trustworthy as people who hold steady and that goes no matter whose nose gets in the way of a generalization in these days of short-term martial engagements.

Too many spouses and friends of those spouses and a new spouses of ex-spouses come to share their confidence. So it is not the best idea to pick that kind as custodians of secrets which are vital to the nation. Some such are high in the CIA. And, with no comment in this place on the proper duration of marriage or the termination thereof by divorce, I do impugn the secrecy of the CIA on that score.

Parenthetically, the Duke of Windsor's social set is excessively international, in the social aspect, an idle, luxurious lot, who flap between New York, Palm Beach, Washington, London, Paris and the other European capitals and loafing places and pick up a lot of gossip. But, back in the years when they were running up their mileage, these people cross-married so often that a fellow might find himself looking his own ex-self in the eye when he mowed his whiskers in the morning. These might seem, at a glance, to be desirable agents for a Secret Service dealing in international intrigue, for they have wide acquaintances and come by a great deal of rumor. But they also dish it and that factor would cancel the intake.

Incidentally, there are no more gabby and self-important flannel-mouths on God's earth than your noted international journalist traveler and lecturer and I suggest that here, again, we stand to lose at least as much as we gain by enlisting these in any secret service. Moreover, anyone who assumes the moral obligation that goes with the precious American right of freedom of the press dishonors himself by such conduct.

There were sycophants in London during the war whose servility to Churchill exceeded even their adulation of Roosevelt and wife. Naturally, Churchill played such as he could for all they were worth as press agents for the purpose of getting the United States to send assault waves to Africa, to win an election for him, to Sicily, Salerno and, finally, to Normandy.

In justice to the minority of ethical, professional journalists on foreign station I should like to except them from this discussion of the gallivanting name-dropping celebrities of the magazines, the radio and the lecture circuit.

They settle down, in foreign cities, endure difficult social and domestic conditions and work long hours at journalism, not politics or propaganda. And many of them wind up in distress owing to changes of management or abolition of newspapers back home, their old contacts gone, their children more foreign than American and with little money put by.

Few of us, and those few do not include me, know enough about spying and secret service to presume with seemliness to say just what kind of organization we should have. But if we must have something, why didn't we have the same need back in the days of the czar and the German, French and Japanese intrigues? And if our CIA is worth a dam how is it that I, a reporter, can gather a bundle of CIA stuff which is supposed to be confidential without getting out of my chair or even reaching for a phone?

Read this "confidential" nonsense for example:

This is from the fourth day's exercises of a "program" of a solemnly secret "CIA orientation course" held in the Agriculture Building, in Washington on May 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1953. Horace S. Craig, Jr., is listed as a lecturer on "The British Intelligence System" and the program says, "it can be stated with some certainty now that the Central Intelligence Agency is surpassing British Intelligence in many years of activity. This the British freely admit. They are profiting by the CIA's improvement in selection and training of personnel, in development of intelligence procedures and in quality of output."

Next comes this: "The Soviet Intelligence System: Dana B. Durand." Durand is a native of Washington, D. C., a Harvard Ph.D. who also studied at Oxford, and taught history at Harvard and Wellesley. He served in the OSS and later was "consultant" to the Hicog or carpetbag administration in Western Ger-

Coolies can be taught to operate modern, automatic machinery as competently as highly-skilled handicraftsmen, whose skills are lost in the battle with precision machinery. The machine has, in fact, altered the relationship between exporting and importing countries.

In the struggle for survival, the European nations will be forced to reconsider their positions in a world where the Flemish weaver's wares are only for luxuries because the spindle and the loom can turn out goods anywhere, attended by almost anyone, at varying labor costs. Years ago, Manchester ceased to be a match for Osaka, and now every country seeks industrialization, the Egypt of Nasser, I presume, planning to surround the pyramids with cotton mills. While certain countries continue to specialize, the fact that once machines are available anything can be made anywhere cannot be ignored.

If West Europe can become an industrial entity of 160,000,000 people, without customs barriers and varieties of money, without import and export quotas, it could develop the industrial capacity and the purchasing power of the United States. The European Community for Coal and Steel is a first fairly successful step in that direction. It will be watched with the greatest interest, because its success could mean a strengthening of our own country in its struggle against the Soviet Universal State. Whatever is done, in the diplomatic or economic fields, to lessen nationalistic tensions or to overcome historic prejudices which, if they ever served, no longer have any virtue, must be regarded as a tremendous step forward. Such a union as the European Community may even lower our bill for European aid.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE LUNG

There is no doubt that the present status of cancer of the lung is extremely depressing. At best, the rate of cure (5 years of more) is not more than 5 per cent and that figure is what the most experienced surgeons in the country are accomplishing. The general picture is about as follows: two-thirds to three-quarters of all patients are beyond help when they are first seen. From a third to a half of those explored have growths which cannot be removed. Well over half who do have growths removed have this done to help their symptoms be less painful and not in the hope of cure.

Cancer of the lung is a disease of increasing frequency. In 1912, a research physician was able to collect from the world medical literature only 374 cases. In 1950, there were 21,219 deaths from this cause recorded in the United States alone. This alarming increase has made this disease the responsibility of the entire medical profession. It is no longer the sole responsibility of the internist (specialist in internal medicine) and the surgeon. Every physician, no matter what his field of practice, must learn to suspect it in every patient of the cancer age who consults him. Cancer of the lung is predominantly a disease of middle and later life but it is increasing much more than could be accounted for by the general increase in the number of people of cancer age.

There are three symptoms of cancer of the lung to which too little attention is being given. They are:

1.—"Cigarette" cough, particularly the cough which appears for the first time in middle life, after years of smoking, or the cough which changes in character after it has been present for years. The patient makes some offhand excuse for the cough and the physician too often passes it over.

2.—Pneumonia. This illness is usually controlled, quite properly, with penicillin but it is not usually followed up. The first instinct of the physician is to relieve the symptoms for which he has been consulted but this tendency must be sternly resisted in the male patient over 40 with symptoms referable to the chest. Coughs, hoarseness, asthma, and even the common cold must be investigated before they are treated. Too often patients respond so very well to the anti-biotic drugs, such as penicillin, that they slip away from observation until it is too late to help them.

3.—Lung abscess. This is a quite common symptom in a cancer of the lung and sometimes the earliest and yet, as mentioned above, it may be treated quite successfully (at first) by the antibiotics and so considered a simple lung abscess and not suspected of being cancer of the lung unless tests are made with cancer in mind.

Just Imitating His Older Brothers

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — This year's elections will probably be given more of a post-mortem analysis than any except 1948, when all the experts were wrong. For the factors influencing the election result this year lend themselves to many interpretations and alibis.

The easy explanation for what happens in any mid-term election is that local issues and personalities decide the outcome.

This year, however, the Republicans decided to pitch their appeal on support for their popular President. And President Eisenhower intended to pitch the campaign on the GOP two-year record.

It is a good record, as congressional records go.

Government expenses have been reduced. Record tax cuts have gone into effect. Tax legislation generally has been overhauled. Inflation has been checked. The cost of living hasn't been brought down, but it hasn't been allowed to spiral upward. For the first time in 20 years, the government has a fiscal policy that makes sense.

THE INTERNATIONAL situation looks better than it has in a long time. Fighting has stopped in Korea and Indo-China. A Southeast Asia pact has been negotiated. Trieste, Suez Canal and Iranian oil crises have been settled. In Europe, the new series of agreements to rearm Western Germany, give her independence and admit her to North Atlantic Treaty Organization are really tremendous achievements.

On points alone, the Republican administration would seem to have a big advantage, deserving to win control of Congress for another two years to tidy up the place for 1956.

But the Democrats naturally showed no enthusiasm for talking about Republican accomplishments. They wanted to campaign on what they considered the Republican failures.

So the issues became C. E. Wilson's hound-dog, unemployment in cities, the Dixon-Yates contract in the Tennessee Valley, lower dairy prices in the northwest, drouth relief that was considered inadequate in the southwest, and the new farm legislation.

TO MEET THIS CHALLENGE, the Republicans started throwing wild punches all over the lot. Though Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy had been temporarily silenced by the Watkins committee recommendation for Senate censure, the Republicans again attempted to make charges of communism in past Democratic administrations the principal issue of the campaign.

What should have been the real issues of the campaign were therefore thrust further into the background. This also tended to fuzz up the national factors normally influencing mid-term elections.

Historically, the party in power has nearly always lost congressional seats in a mid-term election.

Historically, there are always changes of political control after a depression. But this has been true only when there has been greater distress than now found in some farm and industrial areas.

Historically, the Democratic vote is higher in presidential election years than in mid-term election years. The decline amounts to about seven or eight per cent of the total vote.

This would indicate a possible Democratic loss of 25 to 30 seats in the House of Representatives. But this may be offset this year by polls which show that the 1952 Republican strength of 55 per cent of the vote has declined to 50 per cent in the industrial northeast.

Historically, when there is a small turnout at the polls, the advantage goes to the Republicans since by actual count there are more registered Democrats than registered Republicans.

THESE ARE THE FACTORS, says Louis H. Bean, author of "How to Predict Elections" and "The Mid-Term Battle," which have to be taken into consideration for estimates on this year's outcome.

Dr. Bean, a keen analyst of political statistics, used a more precise formula to make his estimate that the Democrats might gain as many as 43 to 46 seats in the lower House of Congress. This was based on the percentage increase of Democratic votes, 1950 to 1954, in the early Maine and Alaska elections.

Making a similar prediction on the Senate outcome was more difficult since most of the seats which Republicans had to win to retain control were in the more Republican northern U. S. But Statistician Bean foresaw the possibility of the Democrats winning control of the Senate by a couple of seats. He didn't dignify this as a prediction. He put it down as a guess.

Further to play it safe, Dr. Bean admitted that all calculations could be overthrown in the last week of the campaign by the concerted Republican drive to make 1954's mid-term election an equivalent to the presidential year election of 1952.

No Satisfactory Reports Given on Why Voters Shunned Congressional Elections

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nobody has explained satisfactorily why so many people didn't vote in the congressional election.

The latest estimate that about 40,000,000 went to the polls out of a total eligible vote of 100,000,000 is one of the lowest percentages in any of the democracies in the world.

The only plausible explanation is that which has been made in other years — that the people were not particularly excited over the issues or did not see clearly that anything critical for them was involved.

It is always contended by the politicians that, if there's economic discontent or some other emotional issue, a protest will be recorded. But evidently there wasn't enough discontent this time to persuade any unusual number of voters to go to the polls.

Compared to other countries, the United States is prosperous. The American people have a high standard of living, with creature comforts of all kinds. Certainly there is no evidence of any starvation or suffering. Even the hardship of unemployment is cushioned by the payment of unemployment compensation.

As for personal income, it is about the highest in history. This leads to the conclusion that contentment does not bring out the voters and that the small minority, relatively speaking, which registered and went to the polls reflects the general satisfaction with things as they are.

Certainly so far as the war-or-peace situation is concerned, the world outlook lately has been better than it has been in months. The business situation, which seemed for a while to be slipping downward, has been getting better and the figures this week show steel production, for instance, higher than it has been at any time this year.

Local issues dominate when national issues are not particularly stimulating. Coincident with the elections for members of Congress there were many contests for county or state offices. These conceivably could bring out the voters who, while at the ballot box, would vote for the congressional tickets. But this year, with the exception of New York state, there were few contests for governor that attracted attention beyond the borders of a given state.

The rule that the party in power wears out its welcome and that the people demand a change has affected many a local election but, on the other hand, there are instances where the states have remained in the same column for decades at a time. In such states there is a tendency for the opposition party to be weak in organizational power, and everybody takes the outcome for granted and little reason is seen for going to the polls. Such an approach is mistaken but the low percentage of voting occurs just the same, especially in the southern states.

By and large the American people have not been persuaded that voting is as important as it really is. Control of Congress by one party or the other doesn't seem to the average man to mean much by way of change. Yet, in the long run, the political complexion of Congress tends to fix the pattern for the election of a president and sometimes for a rather radical change in national policy.

Valiant efforts were made this time to impress the citizenry with the importance of voting. The television and radio as well as the press presented some nonpartisan appeals designed to persuade people to vote. One major difficulty is the need for registration weeks in advance of an election and before either party gets going and brings out the importance of the issues. Another restraint is related to the matter of standing in long lines waiting for a chance to register. Some more expeditious scheme, such as registration by mail with a penalty for fraud, and some method of verifying the signatures after election to detect any possible fraud might be a solution.

Some states, of course, have permanent registration so that there is no need to go but once to register. But even in such states the number who do vote is sometimes very low.

So the answer hasn't yet been found—and maybe in a sense those who stay at home do vote. There are some analysts who argue that those who don't vote would divide in about the same proportion as those who do. But this has been proved fallacious in some after-elections studies. For evidently the discontented voters go to the polls and many of those who are content with the existing administration in the national, state or city government don't vote. It's a matter that probably will never be settled till there's compulsory voting, if indeed that is ever adopted, and American sentiment does not favor it.

Traffic Signal
140 Main Street
Kingston, N. Y.
November 1, 1954

Editor, The Freeman

This is my first attempt at writing to a newspaper for any reason, although my husband and I have long considered doing so as we have witnessed many narrow escapes from serious accident at the corner of Washington avenue and Main street.

Last evening the screaming of brakes told us that again cars had clashed at that corner and apparently serious accident was only narrowly avoided.

The cars travel very fast on Washington avenue and equally so on Main street and we have seen the Stop sign often ignored. Traffic will no doubt continue heavy as both ends of Washington avenue lead to busy roads and Main street is also heavily traveled.

We feel, as do many of our neighbors, that a traffic signal is a very real need at that corner as crossing there for car or pedestrian is very difficult.

Sincerely,
MRS. SCOTT O. VINING

A—This is because the sun, with a diameter about 400 times as great as the moon, is 400 times as far away.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Somebody, and I suspect President Eisenhower, is trying to build up a glossy reputation for the Central Intelligence Agency. This evil outfit, created under Truman, whereas I recently reported that it began in Moosejaw's reign, is a sinister, dangerous layout largely in the hands of amateurs not all of whom bear reassuring reputations. People who change wives or husbands with nimble ease are not as trustworthy as people who hold steady and that goes no matter whose nose gets in the way of a generalization in these days of short-term marital engagements.

Too many spouses and friends of those spouses and a new spouses of ex-spouses come to share their confidence. So it is not the best idea to pick that kind as custodians of secrets which are vital to the nation. Some such are high in the CIA. And, with no comment in this place on the proper duration of marriage or the termination thereof by divorce, I do impugn the secrecy of the CIA on that score.

Parenthetically, the Duke of Windsor's social set is excessively international in the social aspect, an idle, luxurious lot, who flap between New York, Palm Beach, Washington, London, Paris and the other European capitals and loafing places and pick up a lot of gossip. But, back in the years when they were running up their mileage, these people cross-married so often that a fellow might find himself looking his own ex-self in the eye when he mowed his whiskers in the morning. These might seem, at a glance, to be desirable agents for a Secret Service dealing in international intrigue, for they have wide acquaintances and come by a great deal of rumor. But they also dish it and that factor would cancel the intake.

Incidentally, there are no more gabby and self-important flannel-mouths on God's earth than your noted international journalist traveler and lecturer and I suggest that here, again, we stand to lose at least as much as we gain by enlisting these in any secret service. Moreover, anyone who assumes the moral obligation that goes with the precious American right of freedom of the press dishonors himself by such conduct.

There were sycophants in London during the war whose servility to Churchill exceeded even their adulation of Roosevelt and wife. Naturally, Churchill played such as he could for all they were worth as press agents for the purpose of getting the United States to send assault waves to Africa, to win an election for him, to Sicily, Salerno and, finally, to Normandy.

In justice to the minority of ethical, professional journalists on foreign station I should like to except them from this discussion of the gallivanting name-dropping celebrities of the magazines, the radio and the lecture circuit.

They settle down, in foreign cities, endure difficult social and domestic conditions and work long hours at journalism, not politics or propaganda. And many of them wind up in distress owing to changes of management or abolition of newspapers back home, their old contacts gone, their children more foreign than American and with little money put by.

Few of us, and those few do not include me, know enough about spying and secret service to presume with seemliness to say just what kind of organization we should have. But if we must have something, why didn't we have the same need back in the days of the czar and the German, French and Japanese intrigues? And if our CIA is worth a dam how is it that I, a reporter, can gather a bundle of CIA stuff which is supposed to be confidential without getting out of my chair or even reaching for a phone?

Read this "confidential" nonsense for example:

This is from the fourth day's exercises of a "program" of a solemnly secret "CIA orientation course" held in the Agriculture Building, in Washington on May 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1953. Horace S. Craig, Jr., is listed as a lecturer on "The British Intelligence System" and the program says, "it can be stated with some certainty now that the Central Intelligence Agency is surpassing British Intelligence in many years of activity. This the British freely admit. They are profiting by the CIA's improvement in selection and training of personnel, in development of intelligence procedures and in quality of output."

Next comes this: "The Soviet Intelligence System: Dana B. Durand." Durand is a native of Washington, D. C., a Harvard Ph.D. who also studied at Oxford, and taught history at Harvard and Wellesley. He served in the OSS and later was "consultant" to the Hicog or carpetbag administration in Western Ger-

Bechtold Murder Case Is Postponed to February

Trial of the first degree murder indictment against Mrs. Anna Bechtold, 58, of Samsonville, who is charged with the shooting of her husband at a cottage near the Nevele Country Club last September 14, has been postponed until the February trial term of County Court in order that defense attorneys N. LeVan Haver and James Abernethy may have time to prepare a defense.

Mrs. Bechtold is charged with having shot her husband, who was chef at the Country Club, as he walked into a bungalow on the Old Tow Path Road near the Negele Club where they resided temporarily. He had just completed his day's work. Bechtold, 48, died as a result of the shots fired into his back and stomach. After shooting him with a 20 guage shot gun she allegedly also fired a 22 calibre rifle and then taking the family car drove to Samsonville where she allegedly attempted suicide. Unsuccessful in that attempt had a caretaker call police officers and gave herself up to state police officers when they arrived.

JEALOUSY IS BELIEVED to have been the cause of the quarrel between Mrs. Bechtold and her husband.

Among the cases before Judge Cashin Monday afternoon were the following:

Will J. Matay, Highland, charged with violation of Section 940 of the Penal Law, alleged to have been committed on October 23, 1954. A plea of innocent was entered when defendant was arraigned. E. Weiner appears for defendant.

Herbert E. Gordon, 36, of 102 Bruyn avenue, Kingston, was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter, first degree, arising out of the death of Otis Adams, 55, of the town of Ulster, whose body was found on the Summer street dump last October 1, where Adams had apparently died from a beating with a bottle. Gordon and Adams had apparently been on a drinking bout prior to the incident. A plea of innocent was entered and 20 days given for motions. Elmor H. Nathan appeared for defendant.

LOUIS WILLIAM WOOD, 17, Poughkeepsie, was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, arising out of the taking of a truck from Highland on October 11, last. The grand jury recommended he be prosecuted under the Youthful Offender statute because of his age. He agreed to be treated under that provision of the law, entered a plea of innocent of violation of the Youthful Offender stature and the indictment was sealed. Joseph D. Hill was assigned as counsel.

Robert Henry Wood, a brother of Louis Wood, and Clarence Edward Brown, were also arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, as a result of the taking of the same truck on October 11, last. They entered pleas of innocent and Joseph D. Hill was also assigned as counsel to them.

Albert Lewis, Kingston, was arraigned under a charge of forgery, second degree, alleged to have been committed on May 14, last, when it is alleged he forged a government check. A plea of innocent was entered and Louis DiDonna was assigned as counsel. Defendant remanded and 20 days given for motions.

RUTH TAYLOR of New Paltz, whose home is in Miami, Florida, was arraigned on a charge of illegal possession of a pistol, on August 21, last. Peter Harp appeared for Mrs. Taylor and said she had brought the firearm from Florida. There had been an argument between herself and a neighbor over the children and when her husband attempted to discuss the matter a fight started. Mrs. Taylor had taken the pistol and fired it in the air to scare those involved in the fight. Judge Cashin suspended imposition of any sentence on her plea of guilty and she promised to start back for Florida today.

Kenneth Baker, formerly of Rosendale, was arraigned on a charge he had violated provisions of his parole by not making payments in an abandonment case after he had been paroled in his own recognance. He was remanded to jail. He has been in Connecticut where he was apprehended.

Several other criminal cases were set down for specific dates. Jurors were excused until Wednesday at 10 o'clock and court recessed until that time.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Kotler Brossman, and two daughters, Mrs. Rose Abramowitz of Brooklyn and Mrs. Beatrice Gerstenzang of Grand Gorge. Also surviving are eight grandchildren. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock at the F. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home, 88 West Chester street with Rabbi David Kohn of Congregation Ahavath Israel officiating. Burial was in Montrepose Cemetery, where Rabbi Kohn conducted the committal service.

George H. Dammeir

George H. Dammeir, 49, of New Paltz, died suddenly yesterday afternoon. He had worked all day and had not complained of feeling ill, it was reported. Mr. Dammeir was employed by the Arrow Bus Lines of New Paltz. He was born in Lloyd, son of the late George and Anna Michaels Dammeir. He had lived in New Paltz for many years. Surviving is his widow, the former Mildred Smith; two sons, George, Jr., of the U. S. Air Force stationed at Las Vegas, Nev., and Robert at home; a daughter, Mrs. Oliver Fisher of New Paltz; a brother, Ernest of Highland; a sister, Mrs. Salvatore Salerno of Highland, and two grandchildren. Mr. Dammeir was a member of the New Paltz Methodist Church, the New Paltz Fire Department and the New Paltz Rod and Gun Club. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Pine Funeral Home with the Rev. Willett Porter, pastor of the New Paltz Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Lloyd Cemetery. Friends may visit the funeral parlors Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Capt. William Anderson Moncure

Captain William Anderson Moncure, 72, USA, Ret., of Woodstock, died Friday, Oct. 29 at the U. S. Army Hospital at West Point. A native of Richmond, Va., he was the son of the late Dr. James Donlop Moncure and Anna Patterson McCaw. Captain Moncure attended William and Mary College and Virginia Polytechnic Institute from which he was graduated in 1901 and later received his masters degree. He was professor of Mycology at VPI for 10 years. Captain Moncure attended First Officers Training Camp at Leon Springs, Texas, and after receiving his commission served in France with the First Division during World War 1. Later he served at various Army posts in the United Stats and the Philippines and at one time or another was a member of the official staffs of Generals Weigel, Hagood and others. Capt. Moncure had lived at Woodstock since his retirement in 1935. Besides his wife, Mrs. Ethel Moncure, he leaves a son, William B. Moncure of Woodstock, seven grandchildren; a brother, James D. Moncure of Little Rock, Ark., and a sister, Miss Gabrielle Moncure of Woodstock. Cremation will take place at Gardner-Earl Crematory, Troy, to be followed by services at the graveside at Woodstock Memorial Cemetery at a time to be announced.

can leaders have been callous to unemployment problems, called for election of a government "with a heart."

IVES AND DEWEY, who campaigned actively for him, retorted that the state never has been so prosperous in peacetime and that there never is prosperity under the Democrats except in time of war.

The Republicans hit hard at Harriman personally.

They said a shipping company he headed paid $250,000 to a "crooked judge" in the 1920s for leases on city piers, and that he cost American investors five million dollars by "misleading" them into a pre-war Polish mine securities deal.

Harriman replied that such charges were lies, distortions and smears aimed at demolishing his character to save the Ives campaign.

Both Ives and Harriman summed up their cases in emotional final speeches last night.

Ives said a vote for Harriman was "a vote for the historic evils of Tammany Hall," Manhattan Democratic organization.

"When I was a youngster, growing up in a quiet upstate village, Tammany was a name that frightened even the children." Ives said.

He declared that "if Tammany wins tomorrow we shall all say a tragic good-bye to the progress which humanitarian government has made in our state these past 12 years."

Ives said Harriman had been "wandering" around the state, ignoring the administration's accomplishments and "painting a false picture of gloom."

Referring to his opponent as "high tax Harriman," Ives said fulfillment of Democratic campaign promises would mean higher real esate taxes, higher state income taxes and higher rents.

THE SENATOR declared the Republicans must win in the state to help President Eisenhower "build a strong, stable economy throughout our land."

Harriman said that, above "the noise and clamor" of the election, civilization is locked in an epic struggle.

"To the battle against Communist tyranny abroad and subversion at home, all of us commit our first efforts," he said.

He said the nation must seek "a triumph not by conquest but by perseverance," and added:

"Above all we must seek God's blessing and the inspiration of heaven."

Turning to the state campaign, he said:

"The people of this state want an end to the callous indifference of Dewey Republicanism in Albany.

"They want a return to the great Democratic tradition of Al Smith, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Lehman (all former Democratic governors).

"They want a government that will show real concern for all the families of our state—concern over unemployment, over poor housing, concern over inadequate schools, over juvenile delinquency, concern over declining farm income, in short, concern for the welfare of the wage earner, the farmer and the small businessman—all the people.

"And that's why there will be a great Democratic victory tomorrow—here in New York."

Malicious Fire Causes Damage

A fire of "malicious" origin caused minor damage to a building on Well's Lane, off Orchard street, shortly before 2 p. m. yesterday, the Kingston Fire Department reported.

Boards and burlap on one of the windows of the building, used for storing records of the Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp., were reported burned away, with some damage to the interior.

Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central Fire Station were dispatched.

At 3:47 p. m. Engine 2 responded to a call from the residence of Mrs. Kathryn DeVeau, 90 DeWitt street, where an oil stove was reported out of adjustment.

Citizens Pushed

ment it has had in my lifetime" —41 years.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall predicted his party would gain a net of 3 seats in the Senate, which now is divided 49 Republicans, 46 Democrats and 1 Independent, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon.

HALL SAID he thinks the GOP will increase by 15 holdings in the House, now divided partwise 219-215, including vacancies, and with one Independent.

On the other hand, Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell forecast a net gain of 4 in the Senate and 25 or more in the House for the Democrats. He predicted also that Democrats would pick up eight governorships, a field in which Hall made no predictions.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee, brought the Democratic campaign to a close with a blast in a radio broadcast from New York at Eisenhower's recent declaration that under the Republicans the country "won't go to war to get work."

STEVENSON SAID the Republicans were attempting to make political capital out of the end of the Korean war, which he described as the free world's "greatest collective effort" to halt communism.

"They (the Republicans would have you believe that the quest for peace is peculiar to but one of our political parties," Stevenson said. "The cessation of hostilities in Korea on terms laid down during a Democratic administration is represented as a partisan achievement of the Republicans."

Stevenson said the Republicans were trying to convince the people that the "supposed transit from war to peace" could "excuse unemployment and economic hardship."

Whether there was an economic downturn of such a character as to hit the pocketbook nerve of the voters as the Democrats contended remained to be answered by the ballot count.

Nixon said 1954 had been the nation's best peacetime year in history. Echoing a theme he has stressed in visits to more than two-thirds of the states, Nixon said Democratic administrations had "failed" to counter communism at home.

Stevenson said the Republicans were trying to implant in the minds of the voters that the Democrats were "soft toward communism." He said it actually was Democratic administrations which had taken the first steps to organize the free world's struggle against the Red doctrine.

Mitchell denounced what he termed "malicious fakery" in Republican-sponsored radio spot announcements he said recorded a voice with a Russian accent saying "defeat the Republican candidates . . . return America to a New Deal type of administration. . . . Moscow orders that."

Mitchell said he will demand that Congress and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) investigate. There was no immediate GOP comment.

Nixon told reporters in Denver that the election results may be determined by the size of the vote, in obvious reference to the Republican effort to get the GOP members and independents who helped Eisenhower to victory in 1952 out to vote for GOP congressional candidates.

Chest Drive In Final Stage

The first Kingston area Community Chest drive entered its final stage today. Leaders of the residential division met briefly Monday night at the Chest office on Clinton avenue and completed final arrangements.

A general report meeting will take place Thursday evening, and final reports in all divisions will be made Nov. 10.

The seven participating agencies are dependent entirely on the Community Chest for their 1955 operating expenses as budgeted and approved. All workers and contributors are invited to cooperate and make it possible to reach the required goal by November 10.

The board of directors had hoped to complete all solicitations by November 1 but unexpected delays made it necessary to extend the time. However, a spokesman stated the drive will not conflict directly with the general drive being planned by the Kingston Hospital.

Dump Fire Reported

West Hurley firemen were called out at 6:10 p. m. Monday for a fire in the village dump.

The U. S. electric power plants count 1954 as their 75th anniversary.

Marian Congress Held Saturday At St. Alphonsus

Saturday, October 30, the Redemptorist House of Studies at Esopus, welcomed 145 religious from the Deanery of Ulster and Sullivan counties in a Marian Congress that paid glowing tribute to Mary in this her year. Gathering from all districts of the deanery, the priests, brothers, and sisters brought with them the freshness and fervor of their communities' love for the Mother of God.

THE PAGEANT of devotion began in the marble-and-mosaic-embellished chapel when at 9:30 the Very Rev. Joseph Comyns, CSsR, AB, JCD, rector of the Seminary lifted his voice in the first notes of a Solemn Mass. Love of Mary was breathed forth in the voices of the seminarians singing the Mass and in the inspiring sermon delivered by the Rev. Thomas McCauley, CSsR, MA, retreat master of San Alfonso Retreat House, West End, N. J.

FATHER McCAULEY said that it is not a coincidence that in this age of impending atomic destruction we look up and see a woman, clother with the sun, with stars in her hair, and the moon under her feet. It is God's new convenant with men—His promise that the world will not be destroyed.

We are in a Marian age, Father McCauley said, and the church in her liturgy, her dogmas, her writings, is unfolding the glories which Mary foretold when she said to Elizabeth, "The Lord has done great things to me" and "All nations shall call me blessed."

IN CONCLUDING, Father McCauley said that 20 centuries of Christianity has shown that it is easy to love Christ, but it has shown even more surely that, as in Bethlehem when He was born and on Calvary when life was over, it is easier to love Him in the monstrance of His Mother's arms.

A word of welcome was extended by Father Comyns, and after the Mass the seminarians acted as guides on a tour of the premises. Especially interesting to the visitors was a closer inspection of the Seminary chapel and its sacristy with its valuable vestments and reliquaries. Many found interest in the library where tomes dating to fifteen hundred were on display along with a comprehensive section of Marian literature culled from the 40,000 books on the bookshelves. Several of the visitors remarked that the spirit of St. Alphonsus, the great Marian saint and founder of the Redemptorists, seemed to pervade the library in his books written about the glories of Mary.

AT 11 ALL ASSEMBLED on the library ground-floor to hear an address, entitled "The Immaculate Conception," delivered by the Very Rev. Francis J. Connell, CSsR, STD, LID, dean of the School of Sacred Theology of the Catholic University of America. This was followed by questions and discussion until 12:15 when all eyes turned to a portable movie screen for the colorful showing of "Radiant Crown," a moving story of Mary's earthly and heavenly glory.

AFTER LUNCHEON, which was served at one o'clock many of the religious slipped away to the chapel to the shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. Here they prayed before the same picture through which Mary has given so many miracles and blessings in Rome and throughout the world.

At 2:30 a signal called them again to the library where the Rev. Lawrence P. Everett, CSsR, MA, STD, professor of Dogmatic Theology, Mount St. Alphonsus, gave an address, entitled "The Assumption." After a short period of discussion all retired to the chapel where the Rt. Rev. Martin J. Drury PR, VF, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, was celebrant of solemn benediction, which was given in closing of the congress.

Christmas Items Are Arriving at Woodstock Guild

Woodstock, Nov. 2—Christmas merchandise has begun to arrive in quantity and variety from consignors to the Woodstock Guild Shop, outlet for members of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, it was reported today by Mrs. Kay Wangler, shop manager.

"From all appearances," Mrs. Wangler said, "we probably will have one of the busiest Christmas seasons in the history of the guild shop, and one of the greatest varieties of handcrafts. We are planning also glamorous decorations. Our scheme combines old and new in a beautiful blend. You just wait."

The annual Christmas exhibit and sale of handcrafts at the guild shop will open around Thanksgiving time.

disqualified, he may be discharged by the judge * * *."

COURT SOURCES said that would enable the judge to discharge Manning and replace him with one of the two alternate jurors selected yesterday. The two alternates are Jack H. Hansen, foreman for a tractor firm, first in line for Manning's seat; and Mrs. Lois H. Mancini, a pretty, brunette housewife and mother of two small daughters.

Assistant Prosecutor Mahon, in seeking Manning's discharge, told the court Manning was convicted and given a suspended sentence 11 years ago on a charge of occupying a car for purposes of lewdness with a 16-year-old boy. The conviction was first revealed last Friday.

Manning, it was learned, took psychiatric treatment after the incident in 1943 and was reported to have been a model father for his three young sons since that time.

Bechtold Murder Case Is Postponed to February

Trial of the first degree murder indictment against Mrs. Anna Bechtold, 58, of Samsonville, who is charged with the shooting of her husband at a cottage near the Nevele Country Club last September 14, has been postponed until the February trial term of County Court in order that defense attorneys N. LeVan Haver and James Abernethy may have time to prepare a defense.

Mrs. Bechtold is charged with having shot her husband, who was chef at the Country Club, as he walked into a bungalow on the Old Tow Path Road near the Negele Club where they resided temporarily. He had just completed his day's work. Bechtold, 48, died as a result of the shots fired into his back and stomach. After shooting him with a 20 guage shot gun she allegedly also fired a 22 calibre rifle and then taking the family car drove to Samsonville where she allegedly attempted suicide. Unsuccessful in that attempt had a caretaker call police officers and gave herself up to state police officers when they arrived.

JEALOUSY IS BELIEVED to have been the cause of the quarrel between Mrs. Bechtold and her husband.

Among the cases before Judge Cashin Monday afternoon were the following:

Will J. Matay, Highland, charged with violation of Section 940 of the Penal Law, alleged to have been committed on October 23, 1954. A plea of innocent was entered when defendant was arraigned. E. Weiner appears for defendant.

Herbert E. Gordon, 36, of 102 Bruyn avenue, Kingston, was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter, first degree, arising out of the death of Otis Adams, 55, of the town of Ulster, whose body was found on the Summer street dump last October 1, where Adams had apparently died from a beating with a bottle. Gordon and Adams had apparently been on a drinking bout prior to the incident. A plea of innocent was entered and 20 days given for motions. Elmor H. Nathan appeared for defendant.

LOUIS WILLIAM WOOD, 17, Poughkeepsie, was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, arising out of the taking of a truck from Highland on October 11, last. The grand jury recommended he be prosecuted under the Youthful Offender statute because of his age. He agreed to be treated under that provision of the law, entered a plea of innocent of violation of the Youthful Offender stature and the indictment was sealed. Joseph D. Hill was assigned as counsel.

Robert Henry Wood, a brother of Louis Wood, and Clarence Edward Brown, were also arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, as a result of the taking of the same truck on October 11, last. They entered pleas of innocent and Joseph D. Hill was also assigned as counsel to them.

Albert Lewis, Kingston, was arraigned under a charge of forgery, second degree, alleged to have been committed on May 14, last, when it is alleged he forged a government check. A plea of innocent was entered and Louis DiDonna was assigned as counsel. Defendant remanded and 20 days given for motions.

RUTH TAYLOR of New Paltz, whose home is in Miami, Florida, was arraigned on a charge of illegal possession of a pistol, on August 21, last. Peter Harp appeared for Mrs. Taylor and said she had brought the firearm from Florida. There had been an argument between herself and a neighbor over the children and when her husband attempted to discuss the matter a fight started. Mrs. Taylor had taken the pistol and fired it in the air to scare those involved in the fight. Judge Cashin suspended imposition of any sentence on her plea of guilty and she promised to start back for Florida today.

Kenneth Baker, formerly of Rosendale, was arraigned on a charge he had violated provisions of his parole by not making payments in an abandonment case after he had been paroled in his own recognance. He was remanded to jail. He has been in Connecticut where he was apprehended.

Several other criminal cases were set down for specific dates. Jurors were excused until Wednesday at 10 o'clock and court recessed until that time.

can leaders have been callous to unemployment problems, called for election of a government "with a heart."

IVES AND DEWEY, who campaigned actively for him, retorted that the state never has been so prosperous in peacetime and that there never is prosperity under the Democrats except in time of war.

The Republicans hit hard at Harriman personally.

They said a shipping company he headed paid $250,000 to a "crooked judge" in the 1920s for leases on city piers, and that he cost American investors five million dollars by "misleading" them into a pre-war Polish mine securities deal.

Harriman replied that such charges were lies, distortions and smears aimed at demolishing his character to save the Ives campaign.

Both Ives and Harriman summed up their cases in emotional final speeches last night.

Ives said a vote for Harriman was "a vote for the historic evils of Tammany Hall," Manhattan Democratic organization.

"When I was a youngster, growing up in a quiet upstate village, Tammany was a name that frightened even the children," Ives said.

He declared that "if Tammany wins tomorrow we shall all say a tragic good-bye to the progress which humanitarian government has made in our state these past 12 years."

Ives said Harriman had been "wandering" around the state, ignoring the administration's accomplishments and "painting a false picture of gloom."

Referring to his opponent as "high tax Harriman," Ives said fulfillment of Democratic campaign promises would mean higher real esate taxes, higher state income taxes and higher rents.

THE SENATOR declared the Republicans must win in the state to help President Eisenhower "build a strong, stable economy throughout our land."

Harriman said that, above "the noise and clamor" of the election, civilization is locked in an epic struggle.

"To the battle against Communist tyranny abroad and subversion at home, all of us commit our first efforts," he said.

He said the nation must seek "a triumph not by conquest but by perseverance," and added:

"Above all we must seek God's blessing and the inspiration of heaven."

Turning to the state campaign, he said:

"The people of this state want an end to the callous indifference of Dewey Republicanism in Albany.

"They want a return to the great Democratic tradition of Al Smith, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Lehman (all former Democratic governors).

"They want a government that will show real concern for all the families of our state—concern over unemployment, over poor housing, concern over inadequate schools, over juvenile delinquency, concern over declining farm income, in short, concern for the welfare of the wage earner, the farmer and the small businessman—all the people.

"And that's why there will be a great Democratic victory tomorrow—here in New York."

Malicious Fire Causes Damage

A fire of "malicious" origin caused minor damage to a building on Well's Lane, off Orchard street, shortly before 2 p. m. yesterday, the Kingston Fire Department reported.

Boards and burlap on one of the windows of the building, used for storing records of the Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp., were reported burned away, with some damage to the interior.

Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central Fire Station were dispatched.

At 3:47 p. m. Engine 2 responded to a call from the residence of Mrs. Kathryn DeVeau, 90 DeWitt street, where an oil stove was reported out of adjustment.

Citizens Pushed

ment it has had in my lifetime" —41 years.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall predicted his party would gain a net of 3 seats in the Senate, which now is divided 49 Republicans, 46 Democrats and 1 Independent, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon.

HALL SAID he thinks the GOP will increase by 15 holdings in the House, now divided partwise 219-215, including vacancies, and with one Independent.

On the other hand, Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell forecast a net gain of 4 in the Senate and 25 or more in the House for the Democrats. He predicted also that Democrats would pick up eight governorships, a field in which Hall made no predictions.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee, brought the Democratic campaign to a close with a blast in a radio broadcast from New York at Eisenhower's recent declaration that under the Republicans the country "won't go to war to get work."

STEVENSON SAID the Republicans were attempting to make political capital out of the end of the Korean war, which he described as the free world's "greatest collective effort" to halt communism.

"They (the Republicans would have you believe that the quest for peace is peculiar to but one of our political parties," Stevenson said. "The cessation of hostilities in Korea on terms laid down during a Democratic administration is represented as a partisan achievement of the Republicans."

Stevenson said the Republicans were trying to convince the people that the "supposed transit from war to peace" could "excuse unemployment and economic hardship."

Whether there was an economic downturn of such a character as to hit the pocketbook nerve of the voters as the Democrats contended remained to be answered by the ballot count.

Nixon said 1954 had been the nation's best peacetime year in history. Echoing a theme he has stressed in visits to more than two-thirds of the states, Nixon said Democratic administrations had "failed" to counter communism at home.

Stevenson said the Republicans were trying to implant in the minds of the voters that the Democrats were "soft toward communism." He said it actually was Democratic administrations which had taken the first steps to organize the free world's struggle against the Red doctrine.

Mitchell denounced what he termed "malicious fakery" in Republican-sponsored radio spot announcements he said recorded a voice with a Russian accent saying "defeat the Republican candidates . . . return America to a New Deal type of administration. . . . Moscow orders that."

Mitchell said he will demand that Congress and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) investigate. There was no immediate GOP comment.

Nixon told reporters in Denver that the election results may be determined by the size of the vote, in obvious reference to the Republican effort to get the GOP members and independents who helped Eisenhower to victory in 1952 out to vote for GOP congressional candidates.

Chest Drive In Final Stage

The first Kingston area Community Chest drive entered its final stage today. Leaders of the residential division met briefly Monday night at the Chest office on Clinton avenue and completed final arrangements.

A general report meeting will take place Thursday evening, and final reports in all divisions will be made Nov. 10.

The seven participating agencies are dependent entirely on the Community Chest for their 1955 operating expenses as budgeted and approved. All workers and contributors are invited to cooperate and make it possible to reach the required goal by November 10.

The board of directors had hoped to complete all solicitations by November 1 but unexpected delays made it necessary to extend the time. However, a spokesman stated the drive will not conflict directly with the general drive being planned by the Kingston Hospital.

Dump Fire Reported

West Hurley firemen were called out at 6:10 p. m. Monday for a fire in the village dump.

Marian Congress Held Saturday At St. Alphonsus

Saturday, October 30, the Redemptorist House of Studies at Esopus, welcomed 145 religious from the Deanery of Ulster and Sullivan counties in a Marian Congress that paid glowing tribute to Mary in this her year. Gathering from all districts of the deanery, the priests, brothers, and sisters brought with them the freshness and fervor of their communities' love for the Mother of God.

THE PAGEANT of devotion began in the marble-and-mosaic-embellished chapel when at 9:30 the Very Rev. Joseph Comyns, CSsR, AB, JCD, rector of the Seminary lifted his voice in the first notes of a Solemn Mass. Love of Mary was breathed forth in the voices of the seminarians singing the Mass and in the inspiring sermon delivered by the Rev. Thomas McCauley, CSsR, MA, retreat master of San Alfonso Retreat House, West End, N. J.

FATHER McCAULEY said that it is not a coincidence that in this age of impending atomic destruction we look up and see a woman, clother with the sun, with stars in her hair, and the moon under her feet. It is God's new convenant with men—His promise that the world will not be destroyed.

We are in a Marian age, Father McCauley said, and the church in her liturgy, her dogmas, her writings, is unfolding the glories which Mary foretold when she said to Elizabeth, "The Lord has done great things to me" and "All nations shall call me blessed."

IN CONCLUDING, Father McCauley said that 20 centuries of Christianity has shown that it is easy to love Christ, but it has shown even more surely that, as in Bethlehem when He was born and on Calvary when life was over, it is easier to love Him in the monstrance of His Mother's arms.

A word of welcome was extended by Father Comyns, and after the Mass the seminarians acted as guides on a tour of the premises. Especially interesting to the visitors was a closer inspection of the Seminary chapel and its sacristy with its valuable vestments and reliquaries. Many found interest in the library where tomes dating to fifteen hundred were on display along with a comprehensive section of Marian literature culled from the 40,000 books on the bookshelves. Several of the visitors remarked that the spirit of St. Alphonsus, the great Marian saint and founder of the Redemptorists, seemed to pervade the library in his books written about the glories of Mary.

AT 11 ALL ASSEMBLED on the library ground-floor to hear an address, entitled "The Immaculate Conception," delivered by the Very Rev. Francis J. Connell, CSsR, STD, LID, dean of the School of Sacred Theology of the Catholic University of America. This was followed by questions and discussion until 12:15 when all eyes turned to a portable movie screen for the colorful showing of "Radiant Crown," a moving story of Mary's earthly and heavenly glory.

AFTER LUNCHEON, which was served at one o'clock many of the religious slipped away to the chapel to the shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. Here they prayed before the same picture through which Mary has given so many miracles and blessings in Rome and throughout the world.

At 2:30 a signal called them again to the library where the Rev. Lawrence P. Everett, CSsR, MA, STD, professor of Dogmatic Theology, Mount St. Alphonsus, gave an address, entitled "The Assumption." After a short period of discussion all retired to the chapel where the Rt. Rev. Martin J. Drury PR, VF, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, was celebrant of solemn benediction, which was given in closing of the congress.

Christmas Items Are Arriving at Woodstock Guild

Woodstock, Nov. 2—Christmas merchandise has begun to arrive in quantity and variety from consignors to the Woodstock Guild Shop, outlet for members of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, it was reported today by Mrs. Kay Wangler, shop manager.

"From all appearances," Mrs. Wangler said, "we probably will have one of the busiest Christmas seasons in the history of the guild shop, and one of the greatest varieties of handcrafts. We are planning also glamorous decorations. Our scheme combines old and new in a beautiful blend. You just wait."

The annual Christmas exhibit and sale of handcrafts at the guild shop will open around Thanksgiving time.

disqualified, he may be discharged by the judge * * *."

COURT SOURCES said that would enable the judge to discharge Manning and replace him with one of the two alternate jurors selected yesterday. The two alternates are Jack H. Hansen, foreman for a tractor firm, first in line for Manning's seat; and Mrs. Lois H. Mancini, a pretty, brunette housewife and mother of two small daughters.

Assistant Prosecutor Mahon, in seeking Manning's discharge, told the court Manning was convicted and given a suspended sentence 11 years ago on a charge of occupying a car for purposes of lewdness with a 16-year-old boy. The conviction was first revealed last Friday.

Manning, it was learned, took psychiatric treatment after the incident in 1943 and was reported to have been a model father for his three young sons since that time.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

According to book called Kingston and Rondout by George F. Bacon which was published in 1892 describes the mountains of coal, 60 feet high and 75 feet in diameter at the base, which were down at our Rondout docks. It is said this was a great coal port at the time, and many canal-boats were seen here loaded with miniature mountains of black coal. Rondout was in direct communication with the Pennsylvania coal regions by means of the Delaware and Hudson Canal which had been completed in 1828. They had special elevating machinery at the time to unload the coal canal boats, which I think can be seen in photographs of our very busy docks at the time.

At the time, Rondout also was the starting off point for the shipping of blue stone, as taken from our quarries. "At the great stone works in the city of Kingston huge blocks of bluestone are sawed into slabs by steam machinery; smoothed, shaped and cut to dimensions if desired. "The demand was so great at the time that hundreds of thousands of tons was being shipped annually to New York from Rondout. Cement also left Rondout in enormous quantities. At the time it was said that "Kingston contains the largest cement factories in the country," as they were turning out no less than a thousand barrels a day. The cement was of such high quality that it had become the standard by which other cements were judged. Brick was another item seen daily on out going barges from Rondout.

Mr. Bacon had a good description of Kingston horse cars. "The street railway extends from the Rhinebeck Ferry landing to the center of Kingston village, a distance of a little more than two miles, and passes through the principal streets of Rondout and of Kingston, going directly by the City Hall, crossing the West Shore Railroad, at a point within a few feet of Kingston station, and passing very near the Kingston Court House . . . The Street Car Co. employ no conductors but make their drivers collect the fare . . . the grade of Union avenue, (now Broadway) through which the cars pass for more than half of their journey, is so steep for the distance of half a mile or so at its Rondout end that three horses have all they can do to tug a car full of passengers up the ascent." So folks who puff and huff when walking from the Strand to McEntee street should not feel that there is something wrong with them, for even a half a century ago it took three strong horses to pull the trolley up the hill.

Mr. Bacon further writes, "After 'the steep' has been surmounted, one horse is sent back to the foot of the hill and the car is drawn by only a pair of horses until the stables are reached not quite half way to Kingston, when the two horses are exchanged for one and the car goes more speedily onward to the end of the route." They wrote that when strangers would see this gradually diminishing of horse power they sometimes asked when the car would be able to go by itself. (In 1866 the horse-railway was built from Rondout to Kingston and on August of that year the first horse car made the run. The first electric car ran July 31, 1893, naturally without any horses.) In the horse car days, they had only the single track, but numerous switches or 'turnouts' and it is said that they could make the run in either direction during business hours in 15 minutes. I don't know if the buses can make it in that time now.

many. His postwar stations in Germany included some centers of frightful racketeering in money and looting by American officers, mainly Nurnberg mail-order phonies and others on political occupation missions. Assuming that Mr. Durand did his conscientious best as an honorable man to have some of the scoundrels hanged, he was unequal to the task. With few obscure exceptions the whole rotten gang got away with their boodle, some up to the rank of general, with medals by way of endorsement of their villainy.

The CIA program shows that Dana B. Durand's lecture on the Soviet intelligence system set forth stuff any intelligent reader of routine journalism knows by heart. Thus, the MVD exercises a vast combination of intelligence and executive functions which has no counterpart in any western country. The Communist party relies on MVD for its power. MVD also plays the dominant role in foreign espionage a field in which it enjoys distinct advantages over the western states.

Of course it does.

The MVD has the help of the UN traitors' nest in New York. Thousands of Americans of the treacherous "liberal" cult trail with the enemy, mocking by deed and thought a nation made helpless by its own idiotic tolerance.

But isn't this essay of mine the answer and the crusher?

If the CIA is any good at all and better than British intelligence why does it label such obvious, juvenile rubbish "confidential" and caution its people to be sure to put their throw-away papers in the "classified trash" to be burned under solemn supervision?

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Nov. 2—Victor E. Grover, traveling representative of the American Agriculturist for many years, was in Shokan Friday. Mr. Grover, who lives in Poughkeepsie, is a collector of old American clocks and watches of which he has a large number.

Woodstock residents calling in Shokan recently included the following: Mr. and Mrs. George Green, Vera Kimsche, Mrs. Penning, Sr., Archbishop Francis and Anita Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm are sanding the floors of their remodeled bungalow on the reservoir road and putting other finishing touches to the building which will soon be for rent or sale.

Mountain people in considerable number have made an early start for Florida to spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Phoenicia couple who were brought up in Olive, were callers Thursday at the home of their friends, Edward and Bertha Adsit.

Grace Hitt, long time resident of Fleischmanns and well known throughout Delaware county, was a caller in the village center Thursday.

Today marks the 25th wedding anniversary of Frank and Bessie (Hamilton) Jackson, Ashokan mountain road couple. The Jacksons who have four children, formerly made their home at several different bases during Frank's long career in the U. S. Navy.

Frank Kellerhouse and Adin Stoutenburgh, West Hurley young men, were callers in the village Friday.

Robert Winnie, who has helped build several large bridges, towers and schoolhouses, and William Osterhoudt are employed as ironworkers on the Kingston IBM plant and Rhinecliff Bridge respectively.

Kenneth Jones was a caller in Shokan Friday.

Elwyn Davis was here Friday in the course of his duties of Federal farm census enumerator. He expects to spend several weeks covering farms and other acreage in the towns of Olive and Denning.

Arthur L. Rubin, nationally known writer, has returned to his home in Olive Bridge suburbs following a sojourn of several months in Europe.

No man is an island

The really important moments of a lifetime are moments shared with your family. They linger longest in the memory of your children.

One of the greatest gifts you can give a child is your belief in God. The natural way to do it is by worshiping with your family each week. As they find God, so will your own faith grow. You will find a link with the future . . . a point upon which you and your family can build a better world.

He restoreth your soul . . .

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

According to book called Kingston and Rondout by George F. Bacon which was published in 1892 describes the mountains of coal, 60 feet high and 75 feet in diameter at the base, which were down at our Rondout docks. It is said this was a great coal port at the time, and many canal-boats were seen here loaded with miniature mountains of black coal. Rondout was in direct communication with the Pennsylvania coal regions by means of the Delaware and Hudson Canal which had been completed in 1828. They had special elevating machinery at the time to unload the coal canal boats, which I think can be seen in photographs of our very busy docks at the time.

At the time, Rondout also was the starting off point for the shipping of blue stone, as taken from our quarries. "At the great stone works in the city of Kingston huge blocks of bluestone are sawed into slabs by steam machinery; smoothed, shaped and cut to dimensions if desired. "The demand was so great at the time that hundreds of thousands of tons was being shipped annually to New York from Rondout. Cement also left Rondout in enormous quantities. At the time it was said that "Kingston contains the largest cement factories in the country," as they were turning out no less than a thousand barrels a day. The cement was of such high quality that it had become the standard by which other cements were judged. Brick was another item seen daily on out going barges from Rondout.

Mr. Bacon had a good description of Kingston horse cars. "The street railway extends from the Rhinebeck Ferry landing to the center of Kingston village, a 'distance of a little more than two miles, and passes through the principal streets of Rondout and of Kingston, going directly by the City Hall, crossing the West Shore Railroad, at a point within a few feet of Kingston station, and passing very near the Kingston Court House . . . The Street Car Co. employ no conductors but make their drivers collect the fare . . . the grade of Union avenue, (now Broadway) through which the cars pass for more than half of their journey, is so steep for the distance of half a mile or so at its Rondout end that three horses have all they can do to tug a car full of passengers up the ascent." So folks who puff and huff when walking from the Strand to McEntee street should not feel that there is something wrong with them, for even a half a century ago it took three strong horses to pull the trolley up the hill.

Mr. Bacon further writes, "After 'the steep' has been surmounted, one horse is sent back to the foot of the hill and the car is drawn by only a pair of horses until the stables are reached not quite half way to Kingston, when the two horses are exchanged for one and the car goes more speedily onward to the end of the route." They wrote that when strangers would see this gradually diminishing of horse power they sometimes asked when the car would be able to go by itself. (In 1866 the horse-railway was built from Rondout to Kingston and on August of that year the first horse car made the run. The first electric car ran July 31, 1893, naturally without any horses.) In the horse car days, they had only the single track, but numerous switches or 'turnouts' and it is said that they could make the run in either direction during business hours in 15 minutes. I don't know if the buses can make it in that time now.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Nov. 2 — The Mt. Tremper Grange dartball teams played the Asbury Grange teams at Asbury Thursday night. The local ladies won all three games and the men took one out of three. The Mt. Tremper ladies' team has now won all nine games they have played since the current series in the Ulster County Grange Dartball League opened three weeks ago.

Mrs. Fred Hornbach is reported to be ill at her home.

Harold Riseley encountered a bear on Mt. Pleasant range recently. They each went their separate ways.

Robert Hudler left here recently to work on a farm near Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilber and daughter, Miss Ruth Wilber attended the wedding of their son and brother, Hubert Wilber in Baldwin recently.

Miss Jane Crosby spent Tuesday in New York. She will wed William Clancy in January.

Charles Spanhake killed two raccoons recently.

Alan Carle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carle, celebrated his fourth birthday with a party at the home of his parents on Wednesday afternoon. Juvenile guests included Linda and Lisa Carle, Jan, Dorian and Jonothan Hoyt, Andrea and Warren Kraus, Herbert and Estelle Epstein, Robin and David Wilber and Sheila, Patricia, Kenneth and Kevin Umhey. Adult guests were Mrs. Lindsay Hoyt, Mrs. Robert Kraus, Mrs. Herbert Epstein, Mrs. Norman Wilber, Mrs. Kenneth Umhey and Mrs. Howard Umhey.

As Pegler Sees It

many. His postwar stations in Germany included some centers of frightful racketeering in money and looting by American officers, mainly Nurnberg mail-order phonies and others on political occupation missions. Assuming that Mr. Durand did his conscientious best as an honorable man to have some of the scoundrels hanged, he was unequal to the task. With few obscure exceptions the whole rotten gang got away with their boodle, some up to the rank of general, with medals by way of endorsement of their villainy.

The CIA program shows that Dana B. Durand's lecture on the Soviet intelligence system set forth stuff any intelligent reader of routine journalism knows by heart. Thus, the MVD exercises a vast combination of intelligence and executive functions which has no counterpart in any western country. The Communist party relies on MVD for its power. MVD also plays the dominant role in foreign espionage a field in which it enjoys distinct advantages over the western states.

Of course it does.

The MVD has the help of the UN traitors' nest in New York. Thousands of Americans of the treacherous "liberal" cult trail with the enemy, mocking by deed and thought a nation made helpless by its own idiotic tolerance.

But isn't this essay of mine the answer and the crusher?

If the CIA is any good at all and better than British intelligence why does it label such obvious, juvenile rubbish "confidential" and caution its people to be sure to put their throw-away papers in the "classified trash" to be burned under solemn supervision?

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Nov. 2—Victor E. Grover, traveling representative of the American Agriculturist for many years, was in Shokan Friday. Mr. Grover, who lives in Poughkeepsie, is a collector of old American clocks and watches of which he has a large number.

Woodstock residents calling in Shokan recently included the following: Mr. and Mrs. George Green, Vera Kimsche, Mrs. Penning, Sr., Archbishop Francis and Anita Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm are sanding the floors of their remodeled bungalow on the reservoir road and putting other finishing touches to the building which will soon be for rent or sale.

Mountain people in considerable number have made an early start for Florida to spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, Phoenicia couple who were brought up in Olive, were callers Thursday at the home of their friends, Edward and Bertha Adsit.

Grace Hitt, long time resident of Fleischmanns and well known throughout Delaware county, was a caller in the village center Thursday.

Today marks the 25th wedding anniversary of Frank and Bessie (Hamilton) Jackson, Ashokan mountain road couple. The Jacksons who have four children, formerly made their home at several different bases during Frank's long career in the U. S. Navy.

Frank Kellerhouse and Adin Stoutenburgh, West Hurley young men, were callers in the village Friday.

Robert Winnie, who has helped build several large bridges, towers and schoolhouses, and William Osterhoudt are employed as ironworkers on the Kingston IBM plant and Rhinecliff Bridge respectively.

Kenneth Jones was a caller in Shokan Friday.

Elwyn Davis was here Friday in the course of his duties of Federal farm census enumerator. He expects to spend several weeks covering farms and other acreage in the towns of Olive and Denning.

Arthur L. Rubin, nationally known writer, has returned to his home in Olive Bridge suburbs following a sojourn of several months in Europe.

No man is an island

The really important moments of a lifetime are moments shared with your family. They linger longest in the memory of your children.

One of the greatest gifts you can give a child is your belief in God. The natural way to do it is by worshiping with your family each week. As they find God, so will your own faith grow. You will find a link with the future . . . a point upon which you and your family can build a better world.

He restoreth your soul . . .
Worship together this week

GEORGE ATTANASIO, young drummer from Lake Katrine, won the Hudson Valley Drum Corps championship for the third consecutive year. (Freeman photo).

Youthful Drummer Maintains Title In Competitions

George Attanasio, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Attanasio of Saugerties road, successfully defended his senior state drum championship for the third consecutive year at New York State Field Day of Hudson Valley Drum Corps Association, Saturday, Oct. 23, in Poughkeepsie.

The youthful drummer plays with Newburgh Continentals, Ancient Senior Fife and Drum Corps and has to enter competition with senior members. He maintains his title as New York State Individual Senior Drum Champion of the Hudson Valley Association.

ALSO A WINNER in the New York State Fife and Drummer's Association at Jamaica Race Track in September, he has the senior title, in out of state class, receiving the second highest mark of the day. In this contest, George competed against men whose youngsters were his age.

George, a pupil at St. Joseph's School, received his first drumsticks at two years of age, and his first drum at four years. He now studies with Earl Sturtze of Hamden, Conn., but learned drumming from his father. Both Mr. and Mrs. Attanasio are drummers and have played in drum corps.

WSCS Assembly Delegate Speaks To Service Guild

Miss Beatrice Keene, secretary of the New York Conference of the Wesleyan Service Guild, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Guild of St. James Methodist Church Tuesday night, Oct. 26.

Miss Matilda Martin, program chairman, also introduced Mrs. Ethel G. Bartow, secretary of the Newburgh District, who traveled with Miss Keene from Middletown to attend the meeting.

Miss Keene was a delegate to the Fourth Assembly of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in session at Milwaukee, Wis. from May 25 to 28. Miss Keene's talk was a general outline of the four days of Assembly and of the Guild Weekend which followed.

The theme of the Fourth Assembly was Jesus Christ, The Way. The speaker put special emphasis on the character and achievements of the women who appeared on the program among whom were Dr. Glora Wysner, secretary of the International Missionary Council; Mrs. Ascuncion Perez, president of the Philippine Wesleyan College, Cabanatua, who brought the greetings of 8,000 members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church in the Philippines; and Dr. Helen Kim, president of Ewha University, Seoul, Korea.

The worship service which had the same theme as the Fourth Assembly, was led by Mrs. Claude Van Wagenen.

Miss Bertha Waterman presided at the business meeting which preceded the serving of dinner. The dinner was in charge of Miss Lucy Berryann.

Among those invited to hear Miss Keene's talk were members of Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church.

YMCA Youth Center Reports Record Party Attendance

More than 350 girls and boys of high school age attended the 11th annual YMCA Halloween party and dance Saturday evening.

The Youth Center on the second floor was decorated in appropriate Halloween colors with many Halloween miniatures on the walls and special lightning spot lights as well as colored flood lights. Music was furnished by recordings on the public address system.

The young crowd played the carnival games and received many prizes which were arranged in the boys' division, then went to the Hi-Y room to the guessing contests.

Dancing started at 8 p. m. During the middle of the evening refreshments were served in the "Y" dining room.

During the evening many watched the two basketball league games in the lower gymnasium while others watched television. The entire building was used for this annual program.

WINNERS IN the guessing contests were as follows: number of seeds in a large pumpkin, won by Joseph Guinta with a guess of 900, there were 905 seeds. The weight of the pumpkin in ounces was won by Donald Planthaber with 930 ounces, the pumpkin weighed 941 ounces. The number of kernels on a large corncob was won by William Schwarz with a guess of 740, the correct number was 721. The winner of the number of inches of twine in a cobweb was Edward Zwick who guessed 1,162, there were 1,440 inches.

YMCA YOUTH CENTER—2

Besides the Youth Center committees looking after program there were many volunteers Saturday night as follows: Selling tickets, Warren Smith; collecting tickets, W. L. Burnett. Serving refreshments were: Mrs. Louis H. Schafer, Mrs. Burt Streeter, Mrs. Warren Smith; also Mr. and Mrs. John Humphrey, sister and brother-in-law of General Secretary Schafer.

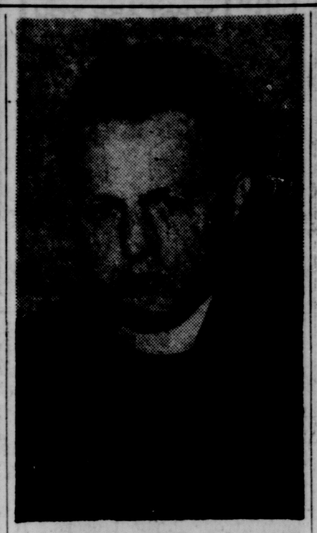

The regular Friday Niters Halloween party held in the Y Youth Center Friday night was attended by 108 boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 15 years. They had a party similar to that of the Saturday night group. Refreshments were supervised by Mr. and Mrs. John Pope.

THE REGULAR GYM classes on Saturday morning were dispensed with and Halloween games were substituted. There were nearly 150 boys between the ages of 8 to 14 years. They ducked for apples in the old wash tub, chewed string with a marshmallow on the end, and many other games. All winners received prizes.

Lou Schafer, general secretary took charge of the morning event and told stories of Halloween in the 1920's. At the end of the game period, three large boxes of chocolate buds wrapped in silver paper were thrown about the gym floor for the annual scramble. The one who could pick up the most candy buds was given a box of candy. The group was divided into gym and swimming groups for the rest of the morning.

Mr. Schafer was assisted by physical director, William Irland and William Randall, boys' secretary.

According to the general secretary, this was one of the greatest weekends at the Y in many years, as well over 900 people participated in the regular and special programs.

GEORGE ATTANASIO, young drummer from Lake Katrine, won the Hudson Valley Drum Corps championship for the third consecutive year. (Freeman photo).

Youthful Drummer Maintains Title In Competitions

George Attanasio, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Attanasio of Saugerties road, successfully defended his senior state drum championship for the third consecutive year at New York State Field Day of Hudson Valley Drum Corps Association, Saturday, Oct. 23, in Poughkeepsie.

The youthful drummer plays with Newburgh Continentals, Ancient Senior Fife and Drum Corps and has to enter competition with senior members. He maintains his title as New York State Individual Senior Drum Champion of the Hudson Valley Association.

ALSO A WINNER in the New York State Fife and Drummer's Association at Jamaica Race Track in September, he has the senior title, in out of state class, receiving the second highest mark of the day. In this contest, George competed against men whose youngsters were his age.

George, a pupil at St. Joseph's School, received his first drumsticks at two years of age, and his first drum at four years. He now studies with Earl Sturtze of Hamden, Conn., but learned drumming from his father. Both Mr. and Mrs. Attanasio are drummers and have played in drum corps.

WSCS Assembly Delegate Speaks To Service Guild

Miss Beatrice Keene, secretary of the New York Conference of the Wesleyan Service Guild, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Guild of St. James Methodist Church Tuesday night, Oct. 26.

Miss Matilda Martin, program chairman, also introduced Mrs. Ethel G. Bartow, secretary of the Newburgh District, who traveled with Miss Keene from Middletown to attend the meeting.

Miss Keene was a delegate to the Fourth Assembly of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in session at Milwaukee, Wis. from May 25 to 28. Miss Keene's talk was a general outline of the four days of Assembly and of the Guild Weekend which followed.

The theme of the Fourth Assembly was Jesus Christ, The Way. The speaker put special emphasis on the character and achievements of the women who appeared on the program among whom were Dr. Glora Wysner, secretary of the International Missionary Council; Mrs. Ascuncion Perez, president of the Philippine Wesleyan College, Cabanatua, who brought the greetings of 8,000 members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church in the Philippines; and Dr. Helen Kim, president of Ewha University, Seoul, Korea.

The worship service which had the same theme as the Fourth Assembly, was led by Mrs. Claude Van Wagenen.

Miss Bertha Waterman presided at the business meeting which preceded the serving of dinner. The dinner was in charge of Miss Lucy Berryann.

Among those invited to hear Miss Keene's talk were members of Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church.

YMCA Youth Center Reports Record Party Attendance

More than 350 girls and boys of high school age attended the 11th annual YMCA Halloween party and dance Saturday evening.

The Youth Center on the second floor was decorated in appropriate Halloween colors with many Halloween miniatures on the walls and special lightning spot lights as well as colored flood lights. Music was furnished by recordings on the public address system.

The young crowd played the carnival games and received many prizes which were arranged in the boys' division, then went to the Hi-Y room to the guessing contests.

Dancing started at 8 p. m. During the middle of the evening refreshments were served in the "Y" dining room.

During the evening many watched the two basketball league games in the lower gymnasium while others watched television. The entire building was used for this annual program.

WINNERS IN the guessing contests were as follows: number of seeds in a large pumpkin, won by Joseph Guinta with a guess of 900, there were 905 seeds. The weight of the pumpkin in ounces was won by Donald Planthaber with 930 ounces, the pumpkin weighed 941 ounces. The number of kernels on a large corncob was won by William Schwarz with a guess of 740, the correct number was 721. The winner of the number of inches of twine in a cobweb was Edward Zwick who guessed 1,162, there were 1,440 inches.

YMCA YOUTH CENTER—2 Besides the Youth Center committees looking after program there were many volunteers Saturday night as follows: Selling tickets, Warren Smith; collecting tickets, W. L. Burnett. Serving refreshments were: Mrs. Louis H. Schafer, Mrs. Burt Streeter, Mrs. Warren Smith; also Mr. and Mrs. John Humphrey, sister and brother-in-law of General Secretary Schafer.

The regular Friday Niters Halloween party held in the Y Youth Center Friday night was attended by 108 boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 15 years. They had a party similar to that of the Saturday night group. Refreshments were supervised by Mr. and Mrs. John Pope.

THE REGULAR GYM classes on Saturday morning were dispensed with and Halloween games were substituted. There were nearly 150 boys between the ages of 8 to 14 years. They ducked for apples in the old wash tub, chewed string with a marshmallow on the end, and many other games. All winners received prizes.

Lou Schafer, general secretary took charge of the morning event and told stories of Halloween in the 1920's. At the end of the game period, three large boxes of chocolate buds wrapped in silver paper were thrown about the gym floor for the annual scramble. The one who could pick up the most candy buds was given a box of candy. The group was divided into gym and swimming groups for the rest of the morning.

Mr. Schafer was assisted by physical director, William Irland and William Randall, boys' secretary.

According to the general secretary, this was one of the greatest weekends at the Y in many years, as well over 900 people participated in the regular and special programs.

IS SHOWER OBLIGATION OF MAID OF HONOR?

A girl writes: "I was asked to serve as maid of honor at a friend's wedding. I was happy to accept and knew that I was expected to pay for my own clothes. But what I hadn't known was that it was imperative that I, as the attendant of honor, give the bride-to-be a shower. I am told that this is one of my dutes. Please enlighten me."

There is no such duty. It is no one's duty to give her a shower. People give them if they want to.

Friends Who Are "Night Owls"

Dear Mrs. Post: I have several friends who are "night owls" and when they come for a visit never think of going home. Can you tell me how I can get these lingering visitors to go home at a reasonable hour? I mean a polite way without hurting their feelings. I am sure there are many of your readers with this same problem and your help in this matter will be most appreciated.

Answer: I wish I did know the answer further than commenting that if most visitors would pay more attention to the evidence of fatigue of their hosts, they wouldn't stay on and on. If you have a husband who has to get up early in the morning, you can use this need for sleep as a reason for hinting that your guests leave.

Marking Envelope "Personal."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it wrong to mark the envelope of a very personal letter to a member of a large family, "personal"? I have received such a letter from a friend and certain members of my family have taken offense — particularly mother who considers it a gross insult to her integrity. What is your opinion?

Answer: I agree with your mother. "Personal" on an envelope sent to a family address is discourteous and has no excuse.

Is Gift Necessary?

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's aunt and uncle have asked me to spend a week or two with them. I have never met them. I'm wondering if I should take a gift with me or wait and send one after I return home?

Answer: No gift is necessary either before or later, only a letter of thanks.

What type of music is played for the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-2, includes this and other details on formal wedding procedure. George Telliers Mark Anniversary At Family Party

Mr. and Mrs. George Tellier of 9 Susan street celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary, Saturday, Oct. 16. The couple were married in St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

A family party marking the occasion was held in Red Bank, N. J., where Mr. and Mrs. Tellier were guests of their grandson, Joseph Farrell, his wife and family. Mr. Farrell is a teacher in the high school at Red Bank.

The Telliers have five children, Mrs. Agnes Laware, Julius Tellier, of this city; John Tellier of Schenectady; George Tellier of Pennsylvania; and Joseph Tellier, now a captain in the army in Korea; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Tellier was a carpet weaver in Rifton Carpet Mills for a number of years, and was a custodian at First National Bank, Rondout, for 19 years. He is now retired.

The Dominican Republic is somewhat larger than the combined area of Vermont and New Hampshire.

Uptown Merchants Display Paintings Of County Artists

Store windows in the uptown business section are featuring the work of members of Ulster County Artists' Association, along with a sign proclaiming American Art Week.

This first week in November is celebrated each year throughout the United States and its possessions to exhibit art to the public. Through the cooperation of Kingston merchants, the county group is displaying the progress of its members.

Entries include paintings by the following artists: Charles K. Brown, A. F. Marks, Sebastian Siggia, Dorothy Kraus, Julius Kraus, Howard Nickerson, Antonette, Granville Rider, Stella Atkinson, Ray Nickerson, and William F. Edelmuth.

State Vice Regent Will Be Speaker At DAR Meeting

Mrs. Thurman C. Warren, state vice regent, will be the guest speaker at the general meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, to be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at the Chapter House.

The autumn luncheon of the chapter will be at 12 noon at Governor Clinton Hotel with the local board meeting to follow at 1:30 p. m. at the Chapter House.

Miss Helen Turner will play early American piano selections of George Washington's day for the program of the afternoon. Hostesses for the day will be the entertainment committee, with Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, chairman.

Overblouse Is Popular

The overblouse is everywhere this fall and winter. It's a far cry from the old poplin middy, for it blooms in the most romantic fabrics. For evening wear, there's even one made of ermine.

COMMUNION BREAKFAST, served at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Sunday morning, featured as principals, seated, left to right, Mayor Frederick H. Stang, guest speaker; Attorney Louis Bruhn, toastmaster; Bob Browning, local news commentator; and Oscar J. Lawatsch. Standing, same order, Charles Troll, Frank Doyle, Jr., the Rev. Donald Ebel, pastor, St. Paul's Lutheran Church; the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church; Frederic Snyder, lecturer; and Elmer Rylance, president of church council. More than 200 were present at the event, which was served by the Ladies' Aid Society. (Pennington photo)

IS SHOWER OBLIGATION OF MAID OF HONOR?

A girl writes: "I was asked to serve as maid of honor at a friend's wedding. I was happy to accept and knew that I was expected to pay for my own clothes. But what I hadn't known was that it was imperative that I, as the attendant of honor, give the bride-to-be a shower. I am told that this is one of my duties. Please enlighten me."

There is no such duty. It is no one's duty to give her a shower. People give them if they want to.

Friends Who Are "Night Owls"

Dear Mrs. Post: I have several friends who are "night owls" and when they come for a visit never think of going home. Can you tell me how I can get these lingering visitors to go home at a reasonable hour? I mean a polite way without hurting their feelings. I am sure there are many of your readers with this same problem and your help in this matter will be most appreciated.

Answer: I wish I did know the answer further than commenting that if most visitors would pay more attention to the evidence of fatigue of their hosts, they wouldn't stay on and on. If you have a husband who has to get up early in the morning, you can use this need for sleep as a reason for hinting that your guests leave.

Marking Envelope "Personal."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it wrong to mark the envelope of a very personal letter to a member of a large family, "personal"? I have received such a letter from a friend and certain members of my family have taken offense — particularly mother who considers it a gross insult to her integrity. What is your opinion?

Answer: I agree with your mother. "Personal" on an envelope sent to a family address is discourteous and has no excuse.

Is Gift Necessary?

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's aunt and uncle have asked me to spend a week or two with them. I have never met them. I'm wondering if I should take a gift with me or wait and send one after I return home?

Answer: No gift is necessary either before or later, only a letter of thanks.

What type of music is played for the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-2, includes this and other details on formal wedding procedure. George Telliers Mark Anniversary At Family Party

Mr. and Mrs. George Tellier of 9 Susan street celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary, Saturday, Oct. 16. The couple were married in St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

A family party marking the occasion was held in Red Bank, N. J., where Mr. and Mrs. Tellier were guests of their grandson, Joseph Farrell, his wife and family. Mr. Farrell is a teacher in the high school at Red Bank.

The Telliers have five children, Mrs. Agnes Laware, Julius Tellier, of this city; John Tellier of Schenectady; George Tellier of Pennsylvania; and Joseph Tellier, now a captain in the army in Korea; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Tellier was a carpet weaver in Rifton Carpet Mills for a number of years, and was a custodian at First National Bank, Rondout, for 19 years. He is now retired.

The Dominican Republic is somewhat larger than the combined area of Vermont and New Hampshire.

Little League Association Plans Two Banquets for Players

BOWLING SCORES

Arthur Moak led a record-breaking spree in the Independent League last night with 620 series, high for the night.

Moak compiled his triple with lines of 203, 222 and 195. But the record breakers were Joe Wolf with a 255 solo and Broadway Florists with a new game with handicap mark of 1008.

C. Canzoneri of the Junior Major slammed a 255 solo, Jim Noble hit 256 and Frank Grimaldi rolled 601.

Rose Schatzel continued to roll in the 190-bracket with a 578 in the Woman's Major.

LILLIAN FROMER'S 397, with 140-135-122, was top series in the BYA League. Pauline Hutton bagged high single honors—146—and tripled 384. Fritzie Davis posted 356, Luella Port 330 and Marie Mathews 326.

RUNNERUP CHARLIE Grunenwald of the Independent wheel reeled off 192, 191, 203 for 586. Ernie Magnusson powered 242 in his middle game and shot 100 pins less the next time around.

The results:

Martin's Market (2)—Jim Roe 486, Jack Hartman 215-543, Frank Leskie 509; 849-830-816-2495.

American Loop Dines Wednesday At Epworth Hall

National League Banquet Nov. 10

The Little League Association will sponsor separate banquets for its American and National Leagues this season, president William R. Scully has announced.

The American League dinner is scheduled Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 6:30 p. m. at Epworth Hall, Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

National Little League will dine at Trinity Lutheran Church, corner of Hone and Spring streets, Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p. m.

"OUR ONE BANQUET became too large with two leagues, so we decided on separate dinners this year," Scully said.

Hiltebrant Dry Dock Pirates, National champions, and Sprague Electric Dodgers, American kingpins, will be guests of honor. They had identical overall season's records of 15 wins and 3 defeats, but the Dodgers took two straight games in the Little World Series.

Mayor Fred Stang will attend and speak at both affairs. Albert G. Gruner, athletic director at the MJM School, will be principal speaker at the American League dinner. The Rev. Clyde Snell, pastor of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, will also be a guest. Dick McCarthy, WKNY sportscaster, will be toastmaster.

G. WARREN KIAS, athletic director at Kingston High, will be principal speaker at the National League banquet. The Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, will also speak. Charles J. Tiano, sports editor of The Freeman, will be toastmaster.

Prizes and trophies will be awarded to players and teams at both banquets. League sponsors, officials, managers and coaches will attend both dinners.

Willard E. "Bill" Thomas is chairman of the American League banquet, with Warren Smith, Peter Ferraro, Thomas Heneberry and Henry Barnes assisting on the committee.

Edwin J. Baker is head of the National League banquet committee, assisted by Raymond Radel, Thomas Lewis, Joseph Tomaseskie, Charlie Diers and William Murphy.

CHAIRMEN THOMAS and Baker have been busy promoting the banquets and between 150 and 175 adults and Little Leaguers are expected for each dinner. A few tickets are available and can be reserved by calling Bill Thomas for the American League at 4350-W; and Ed Baker for the National League, phone 1906.

Sponsors or representatives will attend from Hiltebrant Dry Dock, Adirondack Trailways, Island Dock and Miron Lumber from the National League; Sprague Electric Co., Moose Lodge, Electrol, Inc., and Lions Club from the American League.

Sportswriter Asked to Prove Boxing Controlled By Thugs

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Illinois Athletic Commission has asked sports writer Jack Mabley of the Chicago Daily News to prove his charges that boxing is controlled by "syndicate criminals."

Livingston Osborne, commission chairman, said he would like Mabley to appear at a special meeting which he plans to call next week.

Mabley began a series of articles on boxing yesterday and stated in his first story that "the czar of boxing is Frank Carbo, thug who found managing fighters was more profitable and less hazardous than being triggerman for Murder, Inc."

"Carbo controls boxing from New York. But Chicago has a vital concern in the racket," Mabley said.

The charges brought a demand from Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, that Mabley prove his charges before the Illinois Athletic Commission.

GIBSON, IN a letter to the commission, said Mabley's conclusion that boxing is "a racket" and that "the czar of boxing is Frankie Carbo" are serious allegations.

"If Mr. Mabley, or anyone else, has information that would reflect on the integrity of the Illinois Athletic Commission, any judges or officials appointed by the commission, then he has the responsibility to present this information to the commission," Gibson said.

Osborne said he will have representatives from the state's attorney's office, the attorney general's office and from the FBI for the meeting.

Mabley did not comment immediately on either Gibson or Osborne's remarks.

Javees Defeat Newburgh Academy, 20-0

Maroons Score Third Straight Win of Season

L. Johnson, Richards, R. Smith Get TDs

Kingston High's Jayvee football squad blanked the opposition for the third straight time yesterday, romping over Newburgh Academy's JVs, 20-0, at Dietz Stadium.

It was the third straight victory for Coach Bill Hurley's gridders since their opening day loss to powerful Goshen Central.

LARRY JOHNSON, a steady scorer all season, got things rolling in the first period with a 10-yard sweep around right end for Kingston's first TD. The Maroons moved 65 yards from the opening kickoff to score.

Another long march in the second period was climaxed by a 30-yard pass and run play from Dick Richards to Robert Smith. Richards passed to Robert Johnson to make it 13-0 at the half.

RICHARDS intercepted a Newburgh pass in the fourth period and raced 40 yards for the third touchdown. Larry Johnson slammed over for the extra point for the final 20-0 count.

Newburgh's only scoring threat came late in the game when the Goldbacks blocked a punt on the Kingston 3 But the visitors lost ground on four tries.

Kingston had several other scoring opportunities that were checked by fumbles or interceptions.

The Kingston lineup:

Left Guard—Jim DeCicco.
Center—Donald Van Kleeck.
Right Guard — Dave Christiana.
Right Tackle—Tony Koenig.
Quarterback — Richard Richards.
Fullback—Jim Uhl.

Score by quarters:

Thoroughbred Sold For Record $105,000

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 2 (AP)—A record price of $105,000 for a thoroughbred brood mare sold at an American auction is fresh on the books today and some of the finest bloodlines in racing are in American breeders' hands.

The record price went last night for the 9-year-old stakes-winning Masaka, one of 20 brood mares consigned to the Keeneland Sales by the Aga Khan, the aging religious leader who is reducing his fabulous racing establishment.

A. B. Hancock Jr., who bid the previous record of $85,000 a year ago today, again acted as an agent to set the new mark.

Speculation was that the man who paid the $85,000 for Lithe—John S. Phipps—also bought Masaka. Ironically, both record-setting brood mares were barren at the time of sale, Masaka having miscarried her foal by the great Tulyar because of an infection after being shipped here.

Phils Purchase Terre Haute Club For One Dollar

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 2 (AP)—The Terre Haute Phillies of the Three-I baseball league, owned outright by the Philadelphia Phillies, came to an end last night in a financial bust.

The Terre Haute Fans Assn., a local booster club, had sold the National League team the franchise for one dollar in 1946 with an option to rebuy.

The Philadelphia Club submitted an offer last night to donate $15,000 to the local boosters and return the franchise, retaining a working agreement. Philadelphia explained another $35,000 would be needed to field the team next season.

The Fans Association replied it would not be able to raise the money in time to continue the team before the Three-I meeting Nov. 22-23.

C. L. Shideler, president of the Association, said the franchise would be returned prior to the league meeting. It was held up at present, he said, to allow Philadelphia time to transfer 27 players under Terre Haute contract.

Scoring Power Pays Off

UCLA Edges Ohio State For No. 1 Spot in Poll

(By The Associated Press)

The growing idea that a football team has to "win big" every Saturday to maintain a high national ranking will come in for a serious test next weekend.

Although the educators deplore the thought of running up big scores to impress the voters, the success of such high-scoring teams as UCLA and Miami has been reflected consistently in the balloting of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll.

Is' UCLA on top this week, the third leader in as many weeks, as the Pacific Coast Conference leaders continued to pile up the touchdowns while many of the other ranking teams barely managed to beat teams that were rated far below them.

LED BY FLASHY Primo Villanueva, UCLA rolled over California 27-6 after beating Stanford 72-0 and Oregon 61-0 on the two previous Saturdays. Those three straight displays of brutal power, combined with Ohio State's 14-7 squaker over Northwestern, put Red Sanders' Uclans ahead by the narrow margin of 28 points in the balloting.

Ohio State had taken the lead from Oklahoma the week before when Bud Wilkinson's unbeaten Oklahomans won by a small margin. When the same thing happened again, Oklahoma winning by only 13-6 from stubborn Colorado, the Sooners dropped lower in the point scoring although they managed to hold third place by a comfortable margin over Arkansas.

Scoring is on the basis of ten points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc. UCLA, corraling 72 of the 281 first place votes, piled up 1,931 points. Ohio State had 69 firsts and 1,903 points, Oklahoma 42 and 1,666 and Arkansas 16 and 1,494.

COMPLETING THE first ten were Notre Dame, Miami (Fla.), Army, Purdue, Mississippi and Southern California.

Miami, another high scoring team, moved into the top ten a week ago after a 9-7 upset over Maryland. Then it whizzed past Fordham 75-7 last Friday and jumped to sixth in the rankings. Mississippi and Southern California, former top-ten teams, regained their places in the elite group with impressive victories over Louisiana State and Oregon State, respectively.

Virtually all of the top ten teams figure to win from this Saturday's opponents, so it comes down to the question of whether just winning is enough. Army won from Virginia, 21-20, last Saturday but dropped two notches in the rankings.

UCLA AND OHIO State, the only first ten teams scheduled to play at home, take on Oregon and Pittsburgh, respectively. Oregon has won only one major game so far and while Pitt has suddenly come to life since athletic director Tom Hamilton took over the coaching, even last week's victory over West Virginia doesn't qualify the Panthers as a very dangerous opponent for Ohio State.

The leading teams with first place votes and season's records in parantheses (points on 10-9-8-7 etc. basis):

1.	UCLA (72) (7-0)	1,931
2.	Ohio State (69) (6-0)	1,903
3.	Oklahoma (42) (6-0)	1,666
4.	Arkansas (16) (6-0)	1,494
5.	Notre Dame (4) (4-1).....	957
6.	Miami (Fla.) (14) (6-0)...	870
7.	Army (1) (5-1)	755
8.	Purdue (4-1-1)	685
9.	Mississippi (2) (6-1)	529
10.	Southern California (6-1)..	347

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Intuition is one of mankinds's most highly developed attributes, especially in the distaff domains of our planet. And it helps, and sometimes haunts you in this sportswriting business.

Like the night last week we sat home listening to Dick McCarthy's nightly spiel when we felt the clammy hand of intuition running down our spine.

That evening an item in "Sports" related to a 21-21 tie between Army and Yale in 1929, the history day Albie Booth ran wild in the Yale Bowl. And Graham McNamee, the first great sportscaster of our times, strained his larynx trying to keep pace with Albie's heroics.

"You're off base, fellow," came a voice from somewhere in the room. "That was no tie. Yale was trailing Army 13-0, when Booth sparked Old Eli's magnificent comeback and overhauled the Cadets, 21-13.

"You'll probably be hearing from John D. Schoonmaker about this," the voice went on with a cynical laughter and then faded into the limbo.

Did intuition pay off that night? Of course it did. Bright and early the next morning a special courier was dispatched from Island Dock to the Freeman sports department bearing a gift from John D. Schoonmaker to the sports editor.

Ensconced in a large brown envelope was the Yale football brochure for 1954, in Blue and White color scheme, naturally. Inside the brochure was a note from J.D.:

"Who will ever forget Booth's memorable performance in the 21-21 Yale-Army tie in the days before TV???? '''' (Inside quotes).

"Evidently your proof reader has forgotten because Yale won 21-13. (See Page 68). There has never been a 21-21 score in this series—although there have been eight tie games (See Page 36)," the communication said.

"Perhaps sooner than this we (the Old Blues of Kingston) should have furnished you with our little book—which I now have the pleasure of sending you and I hope you will find it interesting. Thanks for what keeps the old men alive . . . your faithful reader . . . JOHN SCHOONMAKER. . . ."

Old Man Intuition was right. Somewhere in the dusty recesses of the sports writer's mind he must have stashed away memories of a memorable 21-21 tie. But that was between Army and Navy before 120,000 persons at Soldier's Field in Chicago, wasn't it?

The Yale brochure proved to be an interesting melange of nostalgia, statistics and facts. Among other things, we learned that the mighty Yale Bowl (seating capacity, 70,000-plus) was completed for the Harvard game of 1914. At that time it was the largest stadium in the world. Today, almost 40 years later, it is regarded still as the finest stadium in America from which to view football. The entire structure is 930 feet long and 750 wide. It covers twelve and a half acres. The building of the Bowl required the handling of 320,000 cubic yards of earth and into its construction went 22,000 cubic yards of concrete and 475 tons of steel. There are 18 miles of seats for spectators.

The foregoing, you will have to admit, is a tremendous windfall of knowledge to emerge from a casual line about a 21-21 tie in a sports column. And the sharp and discerning eye of that most devoted of all Boola Boolas in the community—John D. Schoonmaker.

Ryff Scores 15th Straight; Bobby Jones Upsets Ward

Brooklyn, Nov. 2 (AP)—Young Frankie Ryff, the unbeaten New York lightweight, had a glib sounding but well meaning explanation today of why he didn't go all out for a knockout in his 15th straight victory last night.

Ryff, 22, won every round as he outclassed the veteran Henry Davis of Los Angeles at Eastern Parkway. He had Davis set up, but didn't deliver the clincher.

"I don't concentrate on knockouts," said Ryff. "They don't mean that much to me. And anyway, I like to practice on these guys."

Ryff apparently meant that it's not that he gets a boot out of toying with his opponents, but that he figures he needs the experience after only 14 months of fighting. Davis, for example, offered a good in-fighting style.

Ryff weighed 139¼, Davis 135¼.

THE COMEBACK of Moses Ward of Detroit was set back a notch at St. Nicholas Arena last night when Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., used superior boxing ability to gain a unanimous decision over Ward.

Manager Hymie Wallman squaked about the decision, claiming the officials were impressed by Jones' "flurries and overlooked Ward's aggressive fighting and harder punches."

Ward caught Jones with two right hand jolts to the head in the sixth, but was himself staggered by two stiff rights in the seventh. There were no knockdowns.

Ward weighed 159½ and Jones 155½.

It was the sixth defeat in 29 bouts for Ward, who was surprised by the margin of the votes. Referee Mark Conn and Judge Artie Schwartz gave the bout to Jones on a 5-4-1 round count. Judge Nick Gamboli made it 6-3-1.

Jones now has won 39 of 68 fights.

Little League Association Plans Two Banquets for Players

BOWLING SCORES

Arthur Moak led a record-breaking spree in the Independent League last night with 620 series, high for the night.

Moak compiled his triple with lines of 203, 222 and 195. But the record breakers were Joe Wolf with a 255 solo and Broadway Florists with a new game with handicap mark of 1008.

C. Canzoneri of the Junior Major slammed a 255 solo, Jim Noble hit 256 and Frank Grimaldi rolled 601.

Rose Schatzel continued to roll in the 190-bracket with a 578 in the Woman's Major.

LILLIAN FROMER'S 397, with 140-135-122, was top series in the BYA League. Pauline Hutton bagged high single honors—146—and tripled 384. Fritzie Davis posted 356, Luella Port 330 and Marie Mathews 326.

RUNNERUP CHARLIE Grunenwald of the Independent wheel reeled off 192, 191, 203 for 586. Ernie Magnusson powered 242 in his middle game and shot 100 pins less the next time around.

The results:

American Loop Dines Wednesday At Epworth Hall

National League Banquet Nov. 10

The Little League Association will sponsor separate banquets for its American and National Leagues this season, president William R. Scully has announced.

The American League dinner is scheduled Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 6:30 p. m. at Epworth Hall, Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

National Little League will dine at Trinity Lutheran Church, corner of Hone and Spring streets, Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p. m.

"OUR ONE BANQUET became too large with two leagues, so we decided on separate dinners this year," Scully said.

Hiltebrant Dry Dock Pirates, National champions, and Sprague Electric Dodgers, American kingpins, will be guests of honor. They had identical overall season's records of 15 wins and 3 defeats, but the Dodgers took two straight games in the Little World Series.

Mayor Fred Stang will attend and speak at both affairs. Albert G. Gruner, athletic director at the MJM School, will be principal speaker at the American League dinner. The Rev. Clyde Snell, pastor of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, will also be a guest. Dick McCarthy, WKNY sportscaster, will be toastmaster.

G. WARREN KIAS, athletic director at Kingston High, will be principal speaker at the National League banquet. The Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, will also speak. Charles J. Tiano, sports editor of The Freeman, will be toastmaster.

Prizes and trophies will be awarded to players and teams at both banquets. League sponsors, officials, managers and coaches will attend both dinners.

Willard E. "Bill" Thomas is chairman of the American League banquet, with Warren Smith, Peter Ferraro, Thomas Heneberry and Henry Barnes assisting on the committee.

Edwin J. Baker is head of the National League banquet committee, assisted by Raymond Radel, Thomas Lewis, Joseph Tomaseskie, Charlie Diers and William Murphy.

CHAIRMEN THOMAS and Baker have been busy promoting the banquets and between 150 and 175 adults and Little Leaguers are expected for each dinner. A few tickets are available and can be reserved by calling Bill Thomas for the American League at 4350-W; and Ed Baker for the National League, phone 1906.

Sponsors or representatives will attend from Hiltebrant Dry Dock, Adirondack Trailways, Island Dock and Miron Lumber from the National League; Sprague Electric Co., Moose Lodge, Electrol, Inc., and Lions Club from the American League.

Sportswriter Asked to Prove Boxing Controlled By Thugs

Chicago, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Illinois Athletic Commission has asked sports writer Jack Mabley of the Chicago Daily News to prove his charges that boxing is controlled by "syndicate criminals."

Livingston Osborne, commission chairman, said he would like Mabley to appear at a special meeting which he plans to call next week.

Mabley began a series of articles on boxing yesterday and stated in his first story that "the czar of boxing is Frank Carbo, thug who found managing fighters was more profitable and less hazardous than being trigerman for Murder, Inc."

"Carbo controls boxing from New York. But Chicago has a vital concern in the racket," Mabley said.

The charges brought a demand from Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, that Mabley prove his charges before the Illinois Athletic Commission.

GIBSON, IN a letter to the commission, said Mabley's conclusion that boxing is "a racket" and that "the czar of boxing is Frankie Carbo" are serious allegations.

"If Mr. Mabley, or anyone else, has information that would reflect on the integrity of the Illinois Athletic Commission, any judges or officials appointed by the commission, then he has the responsibility to present this information to the commission," Gibson said.

Osborne said he will have representatives from the state's attorney's office, the attorney general's office and from the FBI for the meeting.

Mabley did not comment immediately on either Gibson or Osborne's remarks.

Maroons Score Third Straight Win of Season

L. Johnson, Richards, R. Smith Get TDs

Kingston High's Jayvee football squad blanked the opposition for the third straight time yesterday, romping over Newburgh Academy's JVs, 20-0, at Dietz Stadium.

It was the third straight victory for Coach Bill Hurley's gridders since their opening day loss to powerful Goshen Central.

LARRY JOHNSON, a steady scorer all season, got things rolling in the first period with a 10-yard sweep around right end for Kingston's first TD. The Maroons moved 65 yards from the opening kickoff to score.

Another long march in the second period was climaxed by a 30-yard pass and run play from Dick Richards to Robert Smith. Richards passed to Robert Johnson to make it 13-0 at the half.

RICHARDS intercepted a Newburgh pass in the fourth period and raced 40 yards for the third touchdown. Larry Johnson slammed over for the extra point for the final 20-0 count.

Newburgh's only scoring threat came late in the game when the Goldbacks blocked a punt on the Kingston 3 But the visitors lost ground on four tries.

Kingston had several other scoring opportunities that were checked by fumbles or interceptions.

The Kingston lineup:

Left End—Al Long.
Center—Donald Van Kleeck.
Right Tackle—Tony Koenig.
Quarterback — Richard Richards.
Left Half—Robert Smith.

Thoroughbred Sold For Record $105,000

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 2 (AP)—A record price of $105,000 for a thoroughbred brood mare sold at an American auction is fresh on the books today and some of the finest bloodlines in racing are in American breeders' hands.

The record price went last night for the 9-year-old stakes-winning Masaka, one of 20 brood mares consigned to the Keeneland Sales by the Aga Khan, the aging religious leader who is reducing his fabulous racing establishment.

A. B. Hancock Jr., who bid the previous record of $85,000 a year ago today, again acted as an agent to set the new mark.

Speculation was that the man who paid the $85,000 for Lithe—John S. Phipps—also bought Masaka. Ironically, both record-setting brood mares were barren at the time of sale, Masaka having miscarried her foal by the great Tulyar because of an infection after being shipped here.

Phils Purchase Terre Haute Club For One Dollar

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 2 (AP)—The Terre Haute Phillies of the Three-I baseball league, owned outright by the Philadelphia Phillies, came to an end last night in a financial bust.

The Terre Haute Fans Assn., a local booster club, had sold the National League team the franchise for one dollar in 1946 with an option to rebuy.

The Philadelphia Club submitted an offer last night to donate $15,000 to the local boosters and return the franchise, retaining a working agreement. Philadelphia explained another $35,000 would be needed to field the team next season.

The Fans Association replied it would not be able to raise the money in time to continue the team before the Three-I meeting Nov. 22-23.

C. L. Shideler, president of the Association, said the franchise would be returned prior to the league meeting. It was held up at present, he said, to allow Philadelphia time to transfer 27 players under Terre Haute contract.

Scoring Power Pays Off

UCLA Edges Ohio State For No. 1 Spot in Poll

(By The Associated Press)

The growing idea that a football team has to "win big" every Saturday to maintain a high national ranking will come in for a serious text next weekend.

Although the educators deplore the thought of running up big scores to impress the voters, the success of such high-scoring teams as UCLA and Miami has been reflected consistently in the balloting of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll.

Is' UCLA on top this week, the third leader in as many weeks, as the Pacific Coast Conference leaders continued to pile up the touchdowns while many of the other ranking teams barely managed to beat teams that were rated far below them.

LED BY FLASHY Primo Villanueva, UCLA rolled over California 27-6 after beating Stanford 72-0 and Oregon 61-0 on the two previous Saturdays. Those three straight displays of brutal power, combined with Ohio State's 14-7 squaker over Northwestern, put Red Sanders' Uclans ahead by the narrow margin of 28 points in the balloting.

Ohio State had taken the lead from Oklahoma the week before when Bud Wilkinson's unbeaten Oklahomans won by a small margin. When the same thing happened again, Oklahoma winning by only 13-6 from stubborn Colorado, the Sooners dropped lower in the point scoring although they managed to hold third place by a comfortable margin over Arkansas.

Scoring is on the basis of ten points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc. UCLA, corraling 72 of the 281 first place votes, piled up 1,931 points. Ohio State had 69 firsts and 1,903 points, Oklahoma 42 and 1,666 and Arkansas 16 and 1,494.

COMPLETING THE first ten were Notre Dame, Miami (Fla.), Army, Purdue, Mississippi and Southern California.

Miami, another high scoring team, moved into the top ten a week ago after a 9-7 upset over Maryland. Then it whizzed past Fordham 75-7 last Friday and jumped to sixth in the rankings. Mississippi and Southern California, former top-ten teams, regained their places in the elite group with impressive victories over Louisiana State and Oregon State, respectively.

Virtually all of the top ten teams figure to win from this Saturday's opponents, so it comes down to the question of whether just winning is enough. Army won from Virginia, 21-20, last Saturday but dropped two notches in the rankings.

UCLA AND OHIO State, the only first ten teams scheduled to play at home, take on Oregon and Pittsburgh, respectively. Oregon has won only one major game so far and while Pitt has suddenly come to life since athletic director Tom Hamilton took over the coaching, even last week's victory over West Virginia doesn't qualify the Panthers as a very dangerous opponent for Ohio State.

The leading teams with first place votes and season's records in parantheses (points on 10-9-8-7 etc. basis):

1.	UCLA (72) (7-0)	1,931
2.	Ohio State (69) (6-0)	1,903
3.	Oklahoma (42) (6-0)	1,666
4.	Arkansas (16) (6-0)	1,494
5.	Notre Dame (4) (4-1)	957
6.	Miami (Fla.) (14) (6-0)	870
7.	Army (1) (5-1)	755
8.	Purdue (4-1-1)	685
9.	Mississippi (2) (6-1)	529
10.	Southern California (6-1)	347

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

Intuition is one of mankinds's most highly developed attributes, especially in the distaff domains of our planet. And it helps, and sometimes haunts you in this sportswriting business.

Like the night last week we sat home listening to Dick McCarthy's nightly spiel when we felt the clammy hand of intuition running down our spine.

That evening an item in "Sports" related to a 21-21 tie between Army and Yale in 1929, the history day Albie Booth ran wild in the Yale Bowl. And Graham McNamee, the first great sportscaster of our times, strained his larynx trying to keep pace with Albie's heroics.

"You're off base, fellow," came a voice from somewhere in the room. "That was no tie. Yale was trailing Army 13-0, when Booth sparked Old Eli's magnificent comeback and overhauled the Cadets, 21-13.

"You'll probably be hearing from John D. Schoonmaker about this," the voice went on with a cynical laughter and then faded into the limbo.

Did intuition pay off that night? Of course it did. Bright and early the next morning a special courier was dispatched from Island Dock to the Freeman sports department bearing a gift from John D. Schoonmaker to the sports editor.

Ensconced in a large brown envelope was the Yale football brochure for 1954, in Blue and White color scheme, naturally. Inside the brochure was a note from J.D.:

"Who will ever forget Booth's memorable performance in the 21-21 Yale-Army tie in the days before TV???? '''' (Inside quotes).

"Evidently your proof reader has forgotten because Yale won 21-13. (See Page 68). There has never been a 21-21 score in this series—although there have been eight tie games (See Page 36)," the communication said.

"Perhaps sooner than this we (the Old Blues of Kingston) should have furnished you with our little book—which I now have the pleasure of sending you and I hope you will find it interesting. Thanks for what keeps the old men alive . . . your faithful reader . . . JOHN SCHOONMAKER. . . ."

Old Man Intuition was right. Somewhere in the dusty recesses of the sports writer's mind he must have stashed away memories of a memorable 21-21 tie. But that was between Army and Navy before 120,000 persons at Soldier's Field in Chicago, wasn't it?

The Yale brochure proved to be an interesting melange of nostalgia, statistics and facts. Among other things, we learned that the mighty Yale Bowl (seating capacity, 70,000-plus) was completed for the Harvard game of 1914. At that time it was the largest stadium in the world. Today, almost 40 years later, it is regarded still as the finest stadium in America from which to view football. The entire structure is 930 feet long and 750 wide. It covers twelve and a half acres. The building of the Bowl required the handling of 320,000 cubic yards of earth and into its construction went 22,000 cubic yards of concrete and 475 tons of steel. There are 18 miles of seats for spectators.

The foregoing, you will have to admit, is a tremendous windfall of knowledge to emerge from a casual line about a 21-21 tie in a sports column. And the sharp and discerning eye of that most devoted of all Boola Boolas in the community—John D. Schoonmaker.

Ryff Scores 15th Straight; Bobby Jones Upsets Ward

Brooklyn, Nov. 2 (AP)—Young Frankie Ryff, the unbeaten New York lightweight, had a glib sounding but well meaning explanation today of why he didn't go all out for a knockout in his 15th straight victory last night.

Ryff, 22, won every round as he outclassed the veteran Henry Davis of Los Angeles at Eastern Parkway. He had Davis set up, but didn't deliver the clincher.

"I don't concentrate on knockouts," said Ryff. "They don't mean that much to me. And anyway, I like to practice on these guys."

Ryff apparently meant that it's not that he gets a boot out of toying with his opponents, but that he figures he needs the experience after only 14 months of fighting. Davis, for example, offered a good in-fighting style.

Ryff weighed 139¼, Davis 135¼.

THE COMEBACK of Moses Ward of Detroit was set back a notch at St. Nicholas Arena last night when Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., used superior boxing ability to gain a unanimous decision over Ward.

Manager Hymie Wallman squaked about the decision, claiming the officials were impressed by Jones' "flurries and overlooked Ward's aggressive fighting and harder punches."

Ward caught Jones with two right hand jolts to the head in the sixth, but was himself staggered by two stiff rights in the seventh. There were no knockdowns.

Ward weighed 159½ and Jones 155½.

It was the sixth defeat in 29 bouts for Ward, who was surprised by the margin of the votes. Referee Mark Conn and Judge Artie Schwartz gave the bout to Jones on a 5-4-1 round count. Judge Nick Gamboli made it 6-3-1.

Jones now has won 39 of 68 fights.

THERE'S a unique Broadway story behind the man who's stage manager for George Abbott's revival of "On Your Toes." His name is Bobby Griffith, and he's worked as Abbott's stage manager and assistant for more than 20 years. Last year, Bobby turned producer himself, and with Frederick Brisson and Hal Prince, turned out the hit-of-the-year, "The Pajama Game."

This made him, automatically, a big man. He has a big office, a charge account at Sardi's and he and his partners are planning two more large shows. But the habits of 20 years are hard to break, and when the curtain went up for "On Your Toes," there was Bobby Griffith, in shirtsleeves, working away backstage the same as always.

"I'm the luckiest girl in the world," says ..Gloria DeHaven. Maybe she's right, and maybe she isn't. It's hard to tell.

She says she's lucky because she never has any trouble making money.

"I can work when I feel like it," she says. "If I want to, I take time off to have some fun. Then when the bills get too high I just call up and say I want to work and there's always been something for me — either a nightclub or a TV shot or a picture or something"

She leaned over and knocked wood.

"And I'm also the laziest girl in the world. I'd much rather not work. As long as I have some way to release my urge to sing, that's all I care about. It could be at parties or any place. I'd much rather be having fun than working."

So maybe she's no so lucky, after all. And there's more.

"My two marriages and divorces have been the tragedies of my life. My husbands couldn't understand about show people—we're a different species—we like to talk to each other and have fun."

And there's still more.

"I wish I could live all the time in the East. I know that's strange for a California girl—I was born in Los Angeles—but I'm in love with New York. I went to Hollywood just recently to do a picture—'So This Is Paris'—and I was there for a while and I was climbing the walls. Had to get back."

And yet more.

"My family's always been in show business. I got into it naturally. But my father says I don't have the right attitude—I don't have enough ambition. I've often wondered whether I'd have gone into show business at all if it hadn't been for my family."

Gloria DeHaven, who calls herself the luckiest girl in the world, wishes she didn't have to work, has had two unhappy marriages, can't live where she'd like to live, and isn't sure she's in the right business.

Nothing like being lucky.

Savings Bond Sale Higher in County

A total of $877,700 was invested in Series E and H United States Savings Bonds by residents of Ulster county during the first nine months of 1954, a gain of $194,900, or 28.5 per cent over sales for the same period a year ago, it was announced today by William F. Edelmuth, chairman of the Ulster County Savings Bonds Committee.

Series E bond sales in the county for the same period totaled $565,700, a gain of $16,900 over E sales for the same period last year. Sales of the relatively new current income H bond were $312,000, an increase of $178,000 over the H sales for the first nine months of 1953.

September E and H bond sales totaled $123,600, as against $99,600 for the same month a year ago. Series H bond sales alone were $59,500, up 20.2 per cent over the $49,500 in H sales for September, 1953.

A TOTAL of $383,345,500 was invested in E and H bonds throughout New York state during the first nine months of 1954, a gain of $26,730,000 over sales for the corresponding period a year ago. H bond sales alone throughout the state more than doubled, totaling $47,980,000 for the first nine months this year as against $20,136,000 a year ago.

"With the first three-quarters of this year reflecting a continuing rise in E and H bond sales, we hope that 1954 will wind up as one of the best years for savings bond sales since World War 2," Edelmuth said. "More and more Ulster county residents are buying bonds regularly, confident they are saving for their own and America's security."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Don't Be Greedy Is Real Wise Tip

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was played the other day in a rubber bridge game, South had no trouble with his grand slam in hearts. He ruffed the opening diamond lead in the dummy, drew trumps, and then ran the clubs. South had more tricks than he needed.

East sighed and groaned, when the hand was over, pointing out that a club lead would have defeated the grand slam. This was quite true, but West observed that he held six diamonds and only four clubs. How could he tell which suit East was ready to ruff?

The discussion waxed hot, and heavy, as such discussions do. If you were called upon to settle such an argument (sad is the life of the peacemaker) how would you rule?

West's opening lead was a poor choice. North's leap to six hearts indicates control of both minor suits. This is confirmed when he later bids seven hearts, for without such control North would have to double six spades. North's only possible control of diamonds is a void, and it is therefore out of the question for East also to be void of diamonds.

Since the double of seven hearts does, however, indicate a void suit in the East hand, West must look elsewhere for the void. The only possible suit is clubs, since East has bid spades and must have trumps to make his void suit useful on defense. Therefore West should lead a club and defeat the slam.

If you point this out, you will please East and make an enemy of West. Your next step is to rap East over the knuckles and thus make an enemy of him too.

East should not double seven hearts and rely on his partner to find the right opening lead.

It is quite possible for West to have a hand that gives him no reliable clue to the best opening lead.

For example, take the ace of diamonds away from West, and he will probably open a diamond on the theory that his partner is likely to be void in his own longer minor suit.

The vulnerable grand slam doubled, with a 700-point rubber, was worth 2670 points. East knew that there was an excellent chance of losing this huge total if he doubled seven hearts.

If East bid seven spades, however, the loss couldn't be very big. Even the best defense would get only two diamond ruffs, a heart, and the ace of trumps; and the loss, counting honors, would be only 600 points.

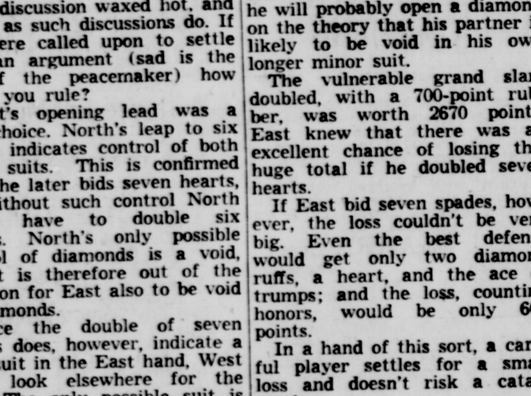

In a hand of this sort, a careful player settles for a small loss and doesn't risk a catastrophe.

Opening lead—♦ K

It is quite possible for West to have a hand that gives him no reliable clue to the best opening lead.

For example, take the ace of diamonds away from West, and he will probably open a diamond on the theory that his partner is likely to be void in his own longer minor suit.

The vulnerable grand slam doubled, with a 700-point rubber, was worth 2670 points. East knew that there was an excellent chance of losing this huge total if he doubled seven hearts.

If East bid seven spades, however, the loss couldn't be very big. Even the best defense would get only two diamond ruffs, a heart, and the ace of trumps; and the loss, counting honors, would be only 600 points.

In a hand of this sort, a careful player settles for a small loss and doesn't risk a catastrophe.

Batista Wins . . .

the voting yestreday were invalid.

BATISTA TOLD his cheering supporters at the celebration he was confident he would get 60 per cent of the total ballots cast. More than two million voters were eligible for the poll. The vote in the last presidential election totaled 1,877,173.

The Cuban strong man accused Grau of withdrawing from the race because "he felt he would lose." He said Grau's action was capricious and not inspired by patriotic motives.

Grau quit Sunday night, accusing the Batista regime of using terrorism to intimidate voters, but his name still appeared on the ballots. Many of his former supporters apparently defied the boycott call.

Close Race Is . . .

crat Henry Pierce, first selectman of the town of Clinton.

In the third district, which compromises most of New Haven county, incumbent Republican Albert W. Cretella opposes Democrat James F. Gartland of East Haven.

The second district had seesawed in the past years but it has been Republican since 1950.

The third district had been Democratic since 1949 but Republican Cretella won in 1952 with 52.8 per cent of the vote. Political experts say it could go either way today.

Both Republicans and Democrats predict a heavy vote.

Typhoon Increases

Manila, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Manila Weather Bureau said today typhoon Pamela had increased its peak winds to 135 miles an hour as it moved toward Okinawa, big U. S. island base. The late-season tropical storm continued to gather force, advancing on a 300-mile front at five miles an hour. At 5 a. m. EST today, the typhoon was about 500 miles south of Okinawa, moving north-northwest.

General recognition of horse colors is gray, roan, dun, bay, brown black and chestnut.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Nov. 2—Plans for a reception to Mrs. Clara Blakely, district deputy grand matron of the Greene-Ulster district, were discussed at the meeting of Highland Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday night in Masonic Temple. A chicken dinner will be held at Hotel DiPrima at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, Nov. 23, followed by the reception in the temple. Mrs. Betty DeMare has charge of reservations for Highlan dand Mrs. Jennie DuBois for New Paltz. Degree work will be arranged by Mrs. Lorraine Turner, worthy matron, Mrs. Florence E. Cotant and Mrs. DuBois, and decorations by Mrs. Muriel B. Cotant. Initiation will be held at the next meeting, Tuesday, Nov. 9. Rehearsal of officers to be Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2 p. m. at the temple. A detailed and interesting report of the grand chapter session was given by the matron, and highlights by the associate matron, John C. Blakely, worthy patron, read questions and answers presented to the grand patron, featuring some changes in the order of business. Mrs. Blakely, district deputy, was honored and told of the reception to the new grand matron at Hotel Astor the night following the session. She announced reception for state officers: Thursday, Mrs. Pierde, grand conductress in Syracuse; Friday night, Herbert Loesch, grand patron in Lockport; Friday, Mrs. Gertrude Becker, associate grand conductress, in New York; Monday, Nov. 8, Mrs. Estelle Caldwell, grand matron at Mt. Vernon; Tuesday, Nov. 16, I. Albert Shaver, district grand lecturer of the Greene-Ulster district, at Prattsville; Nov. 23, Highland; Friday, 26th. Alice M. Scardefield, grand treasurer in Clinton Chapter, Kingston. Rehearsal for the meeting November 23 will be Thursday night, Nov. 18, in Masonic Temple.

The matron gave a report of the annual dinner held in the Venetian Room, Poughkeepsie, and thanked all for cooperation and the associate matron for decorations. Officers expressed appreciation for flowers received for installation at the session. It was announced Mrs. Mattie Rhodes had been moved from the Shaw Nursing Home, Kingston, to the Jennings Home, Highland. Communications received from Mrs. Maud Whiting who is in St. Francis Hospital, Mrs. Minna Gunsalus for remembrance while in Vassar Hospital, and announcement of birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Irving Clapp. Congratulations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mertz for a new grandson. The symbol of the grand leaders for the year is the Bell of Fraternity, carried out in earrings, pins and tie clasps. Decorations in the dining room were in keeping with Halloween in charge of the associate matron. Mr. Blakely and Mrs. Alexander, mother of the district deputy, presented her with a decorated cake in honor of her birthday and she was honored with a song. Refreshments were served in charge of Mrs. Gertrude Coulter. Assisting for the meeting were Mrs. Charlotte Salomon, Mrs. Lena Dirk, Miss Frances Minard, Peter R. Harp and Mrs. Rose Battenfeld. Miss Lorraine Needham, who has enlisted in the WAVES, was presented with a pen and pencil set from the chapter before she left Tuesday. Miss Needham held the office of Esther in the chapter.

Monday, Nov. 15, the Highland Teachers Association and the Highland P-TA will jointly sponsor an open house evening in the elementary school and in the high school, according to an announcement by Mrs. Thomas Shay, Jr., president of P-TA and C. F. Ott, president of the Teachers Association. The purpose of the open house is to acquaint parents and other interested persons with general school procedures, the nature of subjects taught, the educational philosophy that justifies the teaching of specific subjects and classroom procedures and to get acquainted with the teachers. Open house evening will be exclusively for parents, other interested persons and faculty members. In fact, all parents who visit the high school will be furnished with their child's or children's schedules. The evening will be divided into as many periods as there are class periods in the regular school day, but these evening periods will be only 10 minutes in length. It is planned in the high school that parents with children in the school shall proceed from class to class in the same order followed in the day session by their child or children. The open house evening will start promptly at 7:45 p. m., with an assembly of all parents and others who attend. At the close of this assembly full instructions will be given as to how to proceed from one classroom to the other in accordance with the child's schedules. The class visitation should take about one hour according to present planning. Parents will be instructed to attend the first class as shown in the schedule. At a bell signal these persons will then proceed to their child's second period class, and so on until all seven classes and homeroom periods have been covered. At the close of this class visitation the public will again gather in the auditorium for a short orientation session to be followed by refreshments served by the P-TA.

The open house evening gives the opportunity for teachers and parents to get acquainted. In the grade school teachers will be in their rooms and parents moving from room to room at the end of the 10 minute period. In the high school the same procedure will be followed. The evening is not planned for individual conferences between parents and children, but during the course of the classroom visits parents may make arrangements for such conferences at a future date. Mr. Crowley, acting principal, emphasises the fact that this open house evening will give every parent who takes advantage of it the opportunity to learn the why and at least some of the how concerning various subjects pursued by their children in both elementary and high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brooks and her mother Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Hartford, Conn., spent a few days here and visited Mrs. Thompson's brother Uriah Gedney near Middletown.

Mrs. Jesse Alexander spent Thursday in Albany.

Leaving Friday afternoon for Tupper Lake were W. J. Upright, Rupert Burfine, Willard Rhodes and two companions from New York to try their hunting luck.

Carl Christensen, Merritt avenue, was recently promoted to associate engineer in the engineering laboratory at the IBM, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Elton Tompkins is ill at her home. She is being cared for by Mrs. Charlotte Salomon.

Word was received here of the death of Mrs. Henry Columbe who with Mr. Columbe were in Plattsburgh called by the death of a relative. A daughter Mrs. Edward McCarthy lives here.

Thursday evening Mrs. Ann Bezzaro, Miss Kay Tantillo and Miss Sally Brescia were entertained in Walden by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stickles as a birthday party for one of the group.

Canadien Aces Scoring Leaders

Montreal, Nov. 2 (AP)—A trio of Montreal Canadiens dominate the scoring race in the National Hockey League today with Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and Kenny Mosdell occupying the first three positions.

Geoffrion, in his fifth season with Montreal, leads the league with nine goals and four assists for a total of 13 points. Richard, the NHL's all-time scoring leader, and Mosdell are tied for second with 12 points each.

Don Raleigh of the New York Rangers holds down fourth spot with 10 points on one goal and nine assists.

The scoring leaders:

BERNARD DARLING, Dist. Clerk

STATE OF NEW YORK SUPREME COURT — COUNTY OF ULSTER
In the matter of the Application of ANITA M. SMITH for the Discharge of Record of an ancient Mortgage on certain premises in the Town of Olive, Ulster County.
Upon the annexed petition of Anita M. Smith dated October 22, 1954, and upon certificates of the Clerk of the County of Ulster and the Clerk of the Surrogate's Court, Ulster County, hereto annexed and referred to.
Let all persons interested show cause at a special term of this Court thereof, to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the County Courthouse in the City of Kingston, on the 5th day of November, 1954 at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon of that day or as soon thereafter as Counsel can be heard, why an order should not be made herein discharging of record a certain mortgage for $2,000.00 dated October 4, 1920 between Lula E. Chase, party of the first part and Angelina Winchell, party of the second part, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on the 16th day of October, 1920 in Liber 333 of Mortgages at page 157, said mortgage being made a lien upon the premises of Lula E. Chase in the Town of Olive, Ulster County, New York.
Sufficient reason appearing therefore, let service of this order be made by delivering a copy thereof together with the petition, schedules and certificates upon which the same is based to Philip B. Chase, executor of the Estate of Lula E. Chase, at Putney, Vermont, by registered mail, and to the Clerk of the County of Ulster on or before the 26th day of October, 1954, and by publishing said order in the Kingston Daily Freeman, a newspaper published in the County of Ulster on the 26th day of October, 1954, and on the 2nd day of November, 1954.
Dated, Kingston, New York, October 25th, 1954.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Relatively speaking, the cheapest part of any rod is the ferrules. A manufacturer usually has more of an investment in the varnishing and thread winding operations than he does in the all-important joints of a rod.

Other than the fact that ferrules allow a rod to be broken down into convenient sections for carrying these unobtrusive plugs and joining sockets serve no function.

But oh, the ferrules that don't work! And the ferrules that break! This researcher recommends nickel silver ferrules, and I tell you why!

NICKEL SILVER is an alloy consisting of nickel, zinc and copper. When cold drawn to a hard temper the alloy's ultimate strength is roughly 15,000 pounds per square inch. So very thin wall sections are super strong when used in a rod.

When polished, a bright silver-like finish is obtained, and it retains that luster for about a year. Slow oxidation will take place on the surface until it gradually turns pearl gray in color. But this can be polished again.

The zinc in this alloy gives it a greasy, self-lubricating property which permits easy joining and disjoining of the ferrules even if you neglect to keep them oiled.

PROBABLY THE second most used ferrule metal is brass. Hard drawn, bright plated brass is commonly found on low grade rods for reasons of economy. But I have seen brass ferrules on very expensive rods also.

If critically made they are acceptable, but the fatigue life of brass is short compared to nickel silver. Hard drawn brass tends to crack with age and its resistance to corrosion is poor unless it is plated.

Brass, however, is not nearly as poor as aluminum which enjoyed a recent vogue.

6,000 Dockers Back on Strike

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nearly 6,000 London stevedores went back on strike today, bringing fears that last month's disastrous waterfront stoppage may be revived.

By midday 42 of 150 ships in the port stood idle. Port authorities feared others of London's 23,000 dockers might come out after meetings this afternoon.

THE STRIKE BEGAN yesterday with dockers at one wharf refusing to work alongside nonunion truck drivers or drivers who worked during the October strike.

That strike, enthusiastically backed by the Communists, lasted four weeks and crippled eight ports. It held up trade worth 560 million dollars and the government says some of this loss may never be recovered.

The new strike, opposed by union, slowed work at meat depots and other food warehouses.

Man Is Held . . .

she left home. The cemetery was two miles from the Mauk residence.

A crack squad of state police has been working on the case since a volunteer fireman stumbled over Karen's body. More than 100 searchers combed a widespread area in the search.

The little girl was reported missing within an hour after she tottered from the house in a pair of her mother's high-heeled shoes.

She wore one of her mother's old dresses, a false face and an old hat. Part of her paraphernalia was found in a private garage near her home a short time before her body was discovered.

BESIDE HER lay a pitifully small return from her 'trick or treat" tour—a bag of candy and an apple.

The little girl's body was bruised. A coroner's report said she had not been criminally assaulted but had died of suffocation.

Police theorized a coat or blanket—or part of her dress—might have been pushed over her face.

Her hands were full of grass. That indicated she struggled violently before she died, a state police spokesman said.

Knights Day At Esopus Sunday

According to an announcement by Harold W. O'Connor, plans are complete for the annual Knights of Columbus day of recollection at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, November 7. Knights and others attending the affair wil meet at Mt. St. Alphonsus in time for Mass at 8:30 a. m. The program of prayer and religious activities will include a question and answer forum during which questions submitted by those participating will be discussed and answered by the Rev. Charles O'Leary, CSsR. Benediction at 3 p. m. will conclude the ceremonies.

Transportation from the K of C building to Esopus will be provided. O'Connor, who is serving as chairman of the affair, requests those desiring such transportation to meet at Broadway and Andrew street at 8 a. m. Tickets for the day of recollection are available at the K of C building and should be purchased on or before Thursday.

The second district had seesawed in the past years but it has been Republican since 1950.

The third district had been Democratic since 1949 but Republican Cretella won in 1952 with 52.8 per cent of the vote. Political experts say it could go either way today.

Both Republicans and Democrats predict a heavy vote.

Typhoon Increases

Manila, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Manila Weather Bureau said today typhoon Pamela had increased its peak winds to 135 miles an hour as it moved toward Okinawa, big U. S. island base. The late-season tropical storm continued to gather force, advancing on a 300-mile front at five miles an hour. At 5 a. m. EST today, the typhoon was about 500 miles south of Okinawa, moving north-northwest.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Nov. 2—Plans for a reception to Mrs. Clara Blakely, district deputy grand matron of the Greene-Ulster district, were discussed at the meeting of Highland Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday night in Masonic Temple. A chicken dinner will be held at Hotel DiPrima at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, Nov. 23, followed by the reception in the temple. Mrs. Betty DeMare has charge of reservations for Highlan dand Mrs. Jennie DuBois for New Paltz. Degree work will be arranged by Mrs. Lorraine Turner, worthy matron, Mrs. Florence E. Cotant and Mrs. DuBois, and decorations by Mrs. Muriel B. Cotant. Initiation will be held at the next meeting, Tuesday, Nov. 9. Rehearsal of officers to be Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2 p. m. at the temple. A detailed and interesting report of the grand chapter session was given by the matron, and highlights by the associate matron, John C. Blakely, worthy patron, read questions and answers presented to the grand patron, featuring some changes in the order of business. Mrs. Blakely, district deputy, was honored and told of the reception to the new grand matron at Hotel Astor the night following the session. She announced reception for state officers: Thursday, Mrs. Pierde, grand conductress in Syracuse; Friday night, Herbert Loesch, grand patron in Lockport; Friday, Mrs. Gertrude Becker, associate grand conductress, in New York; Monday, Nov. 8, Mrs. Estelle Caldwell, grand matron at Mt. Vernon; Tuesday, Nov. 16, I. Albert Shaver, district grand lecturer of the Greene-Ulster district, at Prattsville; Nov. 23, Highland; Friday, 26th, Alice M. Scardefield, grand treasurer in Clinton Chapter, Kingston. Rehearsal for the meeting November 23 will be Thursday night, Nov. 18, in Masonic Temple.

The matron gave a report of the annual dinner held in the Venetian Room, Poughkeepsie, and thanked all for cooperation and the associate matron for decorations. Officers expressed appreciation for flowers received for installation at the session. It was announced Mrs. Mattie Rhodes had been moved from the Shaw Nursing Home, Kingston, to the Jennings Home, Highland. Communications received from Mrs. Maud Whiting who is in St. Francis Hospital, Mrs. Minna Gunsalus for remembrance while in Vassar Hospital, and announcement of birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Irving Clapp. Congratulations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mertz for a new grandson. The symbol of the grand leaders for the year is the Bell of Fraternity, carried out in earrings, pins and tie clasps. Decorations in the dining room were in keeping with Halloween in charge of the associate matron. Mr. Blakely and Mrs. Alexander, mother of the district deputy, presented her with a decorated cake in honor of her birthday and she was honored with a song. Refreshments were served in charge of Mrs. Gertrude Coulter. Assisting for the meeting were Mrs. Charlotte Salomon, Mrs. Lena Dirk, Miss Frances Minard, Peter R. Harp and Mrs. Rose Battenfeld. Miss Lorraine Needham, who has enlisted in the WAVES, was presented with a pen and pencil set from the chapter before she left Tuesday. Miss Needham held the office of Esther in the chapter.

Monday, Nov. 15, the Highland Teachers Association and the Highland P-TA will jointly sponsor an open house evening in the elementary school and in the high school, according to an announcement by Mrs. Thomas Shay, Jr., president of P-TA and C. F. Ott, president of the Teachers Association. The purpose of the open house is to acquaint parents and other interested persons with general school procedures, the nature of subjects taught, the educational philosophy that justifies the teaching of specific subjects and classroom procedures and to get acquainted with the teachers. Open house evening will be exclusively for parents, other interested persons and faculty members. In fact, all parents who visit the high school will be furnished with their child's or children's schedules. The evening will be divided into as many periods as there are class periods in the regular school day, but these evening periods will be only 10 minutes in length. It is planned in the high school that parents with children in the school shall proceed from class to class in the same order followed in the day session by their child or children. The open house evening will start promptly at 7:45 p. m., with an assembly of all parents and others who attend. At the close of this assembly full instructions will be given as to how to proceed from one classroom to the other in accordance with the child's schedules. The class visitation should take about one hour according to present planning. Parents will be instructed to attend the first class as shown in the schedule. At a bell signal these persons will then proceed to their child's second period class, and so on until all seven classes and homeroom periods have been covered. At the close of this class visitation the public will again gather in the auditorium for a short orientation session to be followed by refreshments served by the P-TA.

The open house evening gives the opportunity for teachers and parents to get acquainted. In the grade school teachers will be in their rooms and parents moving from room to room at the end of the 10 minute period. In the high school the same procedure will be followed. The evening is not planned for individual conferences between parents and children, but during the course of the classroom visits parents may make arrangements for such conferences at a future date. Mr. Crowley, acting principal, emphasises the fact that this open house evening will give every parent who takes advantage of it the opportunity to learn the why and at least some of the how concerning various subjects pursued by their children in both elementary and high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brooks and her mother Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Hartford, Conn., spent a few days here and visited Mrs. Thompson's brother Uriah Gedney near Middletown.

Mrs. Jesse Alexander spent Thursday in Albany.

Leaving Friday afternoon for Tupper Lake were W. J. Upright, Rupert Burfine, Willard Rhodes and two companions from New York to try their hunting luck.

Carl Christensen, Merritt avenue, was recently promoted to associate engineer in the engineering laboratory at the IBM, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Elton Tompkins is ill at her home. She is being cared for by Mrs. Charlotte Salomon.

6,000 Dockers Back on Strike

London, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nearly 6,000 London stevedores went back on strike today, bringing fears that last month's disastrous waterfront stoppage may be revived.

By midday 42 of 150 ships in the port stood idle. Port authorities feared others of London's 23,000 dockers might come out after meetings this afternoon.

THE STRIKE BEGAN yesterday with dockers at one wharf refusing to work alongside nonunion truck drivers or drivers who worked during the October strike.

That strike, enthusiastically backed by the Communists, lasted four weeks and crippled eight ports. It held up trade worth 560 million dollars and the government says some of this loss may never be recovered.

The new strike, opposed by union, slowed work at meat depots and other food warehouses.

Man Is Held . . .

she left home. The cemetery was two miles from the Mauk residence.

A crack squad of state police has been working on the case since a volunteer fireman stumbled over Karen's body. More than 100 searthers combed a widespread area in the search.

The little girl was reported missing within an hour after she tottered from the house in a pair of her mother's high-heeled shoes.

She wore one of her mother's old dresses, a false face and an old hat. Part of her paraphernalia was found in a private garage near her home a short time before her body was discovered.

BESIDE HER lay a pitifully small return from her 'trick or treat" tour—a bag of candy and an apple.

The little girl's body was bruised. A coroner's report said she had not been criminally assaulted but had died of suffocation.

Police theorized a coat or blanket—or part of her dress—might have been pushed over her face.

Her hands were full of grass. That indicated she struggled violently before she died, a state police spokesman said.

Knights Day At Esopus Sunday

According to an announcement by Harold W. O'Connor, plans are complete for the annual Knights of Columbus day of recollection at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, November 7. Knights and others attending the affair wil meet at Mt. St. Alphonsus in time for Mass at 8:30 a. m. The program of prayer and religious activities will include a question and answer forum during which questions submitted by those participating will be discussed and answered by the Rev. Charles O'Leary, CSsR. Benediction at 3 p. m. will conclude the ceremonies.

Transportation from the K of C building to Esopus will be provided. O'Connor, who is serving as chairman of the affair, requests those desiring such transportation to meet at Broadway and Andrew street at 8 a. m. Tickets for the day of recollection are available at the K of C building and should be purchased on or before Thursday.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Relatively speaking, the cheapest part of any rod is the ferrules. A manufacturer usually has more of an investment in the varnishing and thread winding operations than he does in the all-important joints of a rod.

Other than the fact that ferrules allow a rod to be broken down into convenient sections for carrying these unobtrusive plugs and joining sockets serve no function.

But oh, the ferrules that don't work! And the ferrules that break! This researcher recommends nickel silver ferrules, and I tell you why!

NICKEL SILVER is an alloy consisting of nickel, zinc and copper. When cold drawn to a hard temper the alloy's ultimate strength is roughly 15,000 pounds per square inch. So very thin wall sections are super strong when used in a rod.

When polished, a bright silver-like finish is obtained, and it retains that luster for about a year. Slow oxidation will take place on the surface until it gradually turns pearl gray in color. But this can be polished again.

The zinc in this alloy gives it a greasy, self-lubricating property which permits easy joining and disjoining of the ferrules even if you neglect to keep them oiled.

PROBABLY THE second most used ferrule metal is brass. Hard drawn, bright plated brass is commonly found on low grade rods for reasons of economy. But I have seen brass ferrules on very expensive rods also.

If critically made they are acceptable, but the fatigue life of brass is short compared to nickel silver. Hard drawn brass tends to crack with age and its resistance to corrosion is poor unless it is plated.

Brass, however, is not nearly as poor as aluminum which enjoyed a recent vogue.

Federal Court Orders Costello to Answer Queries

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—Ex-gambler Frank Costello is under Federal Court order to answer questions about his activities prior to 1925. The information was asked in a government suit to cancel his citizenship and deport him to his native Italy.

Costello had refused to answer the questions, claiming they might tend to incriminate him. However, Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday ruled that any criminal feature involved in Costello's early activities "has long been outlawed" by the statute of limitations, and he directed him to answer the questions.

He said Costello now has the task "to justify his refusal to answer."

Costello, 63, came to this country at the age of 4 and in 1925 became a citizen.

Government efforts to revoke his citizenship are only part of the former big-time gambler's current troubles. He is now free in $50,000 bail pending appeal of an income tax conviction that carries a five-year sentence and a $30,000 fine.

Costello recently was freed from the Milan, Mich., correctional institution after serving a term for contempt of Congress in refusing to answer key questions at the Kefauver Committee hearings.

Mrs. FDR Is Hostess

Hyde Park, Nov. 2 (AP)—Two widows lunch here today just about 15 years after they last got together at Hyde Park. With them then were their husbands, the heads of their respective nations. The women are Queen Mother Elizabeth of Great Britain and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Queen Mother was last at Hyde Park in 1939 when she and King George VI visited President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The Roosevelt mansion, where the King and Queen were entertained, is now a national shrine, but the former President's widow still lives nearby in a cottage on the edge of the Roosevelt estate.

15 Guerrillas Killed

Tunis, Tunisia, Nov. 2 (AP)—French sources reported 15 Tunisian guerrillas were killed yesterday in a clash in the Sidi Youssef region near the Algerian border. The fight followed weekend violence which saw 24 persons killed in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, largely in fights between French forces and independence-minded Nationalists.

Louise Gregory Dies

Princeton, Mass., Nov. 2 (AP)—Louise H. Gregory, 74, who was associated with Barnard College from 1908 until her retirement in 1949, died yesterday in Holden District Hospital. A native of Princeton, she maintained a summer home here and a residence on Fifth avenue, New York city.

Carpenters' Union Drops Labor Charge

New York, Nov. 2 (Special)—The National Labor Relations Board announced here Monday that the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, of 48 Main street Kingston has dropped a charge of unfair labor practices it had filed last May against a Monticello company.

The union had accused the Sullivan County Wood Products Company, of Route 17, Monticello, of firing two employes, James McGuire and Paul Dumont, in May because of their union membership and activities, and refusing to reinstate them. The union is affiliated with the AFL United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The charge was withdrawn by the union during an investigation being conducted by an NLRB field examiner, Abraham J. Lehman.

600 in Attendance At CYO Opening Service Sunday

Some 600 CYO boys and girls filled St. Mary's Church Sunday afternoon for the opening of National CYO Week. The observance consisted of a holy hour and solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, was the celebrant with the Rev. James V. Keating of St. Joseph's Church as deacon and the Rev. Paul Hirschauer of St. Peter's as sub deacon. The Rev. Edward Farrelly, county CYO moderator, was master of ceremonies.

THE OBSERVANCE was opened with a procession from St. Mary's School to the church consisting of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, girls of St. Ursula, Campfire Girls and Bluebirds. A message to CYO from His Holiness Pope Pius XII was read by Father Keating, who then delivered a short talk of interest to Catholic youth. The Rosary was led by members of St. Ursula, St. Peter's Boys Scouts, St. Mary's Brownies and Girl Scouts, boys of the Immaculate Conception and high school boys of St. Joseph's.

SUNDAY'S OBSERVANCE also included a communion Mass and breakfast at St. Mary's for 60 Girl Scouts and Brownies.

Speed Scherer's Orchestra, through the courtesy of Local 215 AF of M played to 400 CYO teeners and their friends at St. Peter's Hall Monday night from 7:30 to 10:30.

The week's observance, among other events will include the CYO cross country run at Dietz Stadium Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. All boys in Ulster county between the ages of 13 and 18 are invited to participate in this event to compete for the Kingston Patrolmen's Trophy and 15 other awards.

Smith Completes 35-Year Service

Clayton R. Smith, of 70 Elmendorf strett, this city, was honored by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., today for 35 consecutive years of service. Smith is distribution superintendent at the utility company's Jansen avenue operating headquarters.

He started with Central Hudson October 27, 1919 as clerk and later was promoted to engineer. In 1930 he was appointed assistant distribution design engineer, and from 1932 to 1942 served as electrical engineer. He was named assistant electric distribution superintendent in 1951 and was promoted to his present position in May of this year.

In a ceremony at the Central Hudson general office in Poughkeepsie, Ernest R. Acker, president, presented Smith a 30-year service emblem and congratulated him on his long period of service.

Press Censorship Ends

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—U. S. Army press censorship in Korea and Japan ended today. Far East command censors were advised by the Defense Department that stabilization of the military situation in Korea and redeployment of most of the American and foreign military troops there has ended the need for security in press dispatches and pictures. Censorship was imposed Dec. 23, 1950, at the request of correspondents and new agencies covering the Korean war. Before that time, correspondents were allowed to use their own judgment on security. That method did not work. Since Dec. 25, 1950, all press dispatches, news reels, radio tape recordings and photographs have been examined by censors in Korea or Japan.

First Returns Are for Democrats

Hart's Location, N. H., Nov. 2 (AP)—The first election returns in the nation today gave Democratic candidates a 6-4 edge over Republicans in this tiny mountain village in traditionally Republican New Hampshire.

The polls opened seconds after midnight and closed at 12:09 a. m. after all 10 registered voters cast ballots.

The vote:

Governor: John Shaw (D) 6; Lane Dwinell (R) 4.

U. S. Senate full term: Gerard L. Morin (D) 6; Sen. Bridges (R) 4.

U. S. Senate, unexpired term of the late Sen. Tobey; Stanley J. Betley (D) 6; Rep. Norris Cotton (R) 4.

Nine of the voters had to climb a steep mountain trail to reach the polling place—the cliffside home of Cornelius Griffin. The 10th was ill and cast an absentee ballot.

Hart's Location has not always voted straight Republican but it generally has favored the GOP over Democratic candidates.

Will Be Sentenced

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP)—Det. Lt. Michael G. Hozer of Cliffside Park, convicted of ignoring the gambling operations of Frank Erickson, will be sentenced Nov. 19. A six-man six-woman jury found Hozer guilty last night of misconduct in office after deliberating 10 hours.

Federal Court Orders Costello to Answer Queries

New York, Nov. 2 (AP)—Ex-gambler Frank Costello is under Federal Court order to answer questions about his activities prior to 1925. The information was asked in a government suit to cancel his citizenship and deport him to his native Italy.

Costello had refused to answer the questions, claiming they might tend to incriminate him. However, Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday ruled that any criminal feature involved in Costello's early activities "has long been outlawed" by the statute of limitations, and he directed him to answer the questions.

He said Costello now has the task "to justify his refusal to answer."

Costello, 63, came to this country at the age of 4 and in 1925 became a citizen.

Government efforts to revoke his citizenship are only part of the former big-time gambler's current troubles. He is now free in $50,000 bail pending appeal of an income tax conviction that carries a five-year sentence and a $30,000 fine.

Costello recently was freed from the Milan, Mich., correctional institution after serving a term for contempt of Congress in refusing to answer key questions at the Kefauver Committee hearings.

Mrs. FDR Is Hostess

Hyde Park, Nov. 2 (AP)—Two widows lunch here today just about 15 years after they last got together at Hyde Park. With them then were their husbands, the heads of their respective nations. The women are Queen Mother Elizabeth of Great Britain and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Queen Mother was last at Hyde Park in 1939 when she and King George VI visited President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The Roosevelt mansion, where the King and Queen were entertained, is now a national shrine, but the former President's widow still lives nearby in a cottage on the edge of the Roosevelt estate.

15 Guerrillas Killed

Tunis, Tunisia, Nov. 2 (AP)—French sources reported 15 Tunisian guerrillas were killed yesterday in a clash in the Sidi Youssef region near the Algerian border. The fight followed weekend violence which saw 24 persons killed in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, largely in fights between French forces and independence-minded Nationalists.

Louise Gregory Dies

Princeton, Mass., Nov. 2 (AP)—Louise H. Gregory, 74, who was associated with Barnard College from 1908 until her retirement in 1949, died yesterday in Holden District Hospital. A native of Princeton, she maintained a summer home here and a residence on Fifth avenue, New York city.

Carpenters' Union Drops Labor Charge

New York, Nov. 2 (Special)—The National Labor Relations Board announced here Monday that the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, of 48 Main street Kingston has dropped a charge of unfair labor practices it had filed last May against a Monticello company.

The union had accused the Sullivan County Wood Products Company, of Route 17, Monticello, of firing two employes, James McGuire and Paul Dumont, in May because of their union membership and activities, and refusing to reinstate them. The union is affiliated with the AFL United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The charge was withdrawn by the union during an investigation being conducted by an NLRB field examiner, Abraham J. Lehman.

600 in Attendance At CYO Opening Service Sunday

Some 600 CYO boys and girls filled St. Mary's Church Sunday afternoon for the opening of National CYO Week. The observance consisted of a holy hour and solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, was the celebrant with the Rev. James V. Keating of St. Joseph's Church as deacon and the Rev. Paul Hirschauer of St. Peter's as sub deacon. The Rev. Edward Farrelly, county CYO moderator, was master of ceremonies.

THE OBSERVANCE was opened with a procession from St. Mary's School to the church consisting of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, girls of St. Ursula, Campfire Girls and Bluebirds. A message to CYO from His Holiness Pope Pius XII was read by Father Keating, who then delivered a short talk of interest to Catholic youth. The Rosary was led by members of St. Ursula, St. Peter's Boys Scouts, St. Mary's Brownies and Girl Scouts, boys of the Immaculate Conception and high school boys of St. Joseph's.

SUNDAY'S OBSERVANCE also included a communion Mass and breakfast at St. Mary's for 60 Girl Scouts and Brownies.

Speed Scherer's Orchestra, through the courtesy of Local 215 AF of M played to 400 CYO tecners and their friends at St. Peter's Hall Monday night from 7:30 to 10:30.

The week's observance, among other events will include the CYO cross country run at Dietz Stadium Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. All boys in Ulster county between the ages of 13 and 18 are invited to participate in this event to compete for the Kingston Patrolmen's Trophy and 15 other awards.

Smith Completes 35-Year Service

Clayton R. Smith, of 70 Elmendorf strett, this city, was honored by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., today for 35 consecutive years of service. Smith is distribution superintendent at the utility company's Jansen avenue operating headquarters.

He started with Central Hudson October 27, 1919 as clerk and later was promoted to engineer. In 1930 he was appointed assistant distribution design engineer, and from 1932 to 1942 served as electrical engineer. He was named assistant electric distribution superintendent in 1951 and was promoted to his present position in May of this year.

In a ceremony at the Central Hudson general office in Poughkeepsie, Ernest R. Acker, president, presented Smith a 30-year service emblem and congratulated him on his long period of service.

Press Censorship Ends

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (AP)—U. S. Army press censorship in Korea and Japan ended today. Far East command censors were advised by the Defense Department that stabilization of the military situation in Korea and redeployment of most of the American and foreign military troops there has ended the need for security in press dispatches and pictures. Censorship was imposed Dec. 23, 1950, at the request of correspondents and new agencies covering the Korean war. Before that time, correspondents were allowed to use their own judgment on security. That method did not work. Since Dec. 25, 1950, all press dispatches, news reels, radio tape recordings and photographs have been examined by censors in Korea or Japan.

First Returns Are for Democrats

Hart's Location, N. H., Nov. 2 (AP)—The first election returns in the nation today gave Democratic candidates a 6-4 edge over Republicans in this tiny mountain village in traditionally Republican New Hampshire.

The polls opened seconds after midnight and closed at 12:09 a. m. after all 10 registered voters cast ballots.

The vote:

Governor: John Shaw (D) 6; Lane Dwinell (R) 4.

U. S. Senate full term: Gerard L. Morin (D) 6; Sen. Bridges (R) 4.

U. S. Senate, unexpired term of the late Sen. Tobey; Stanley J. Betley (D) 6; Rep. Norris Cotton (R) 4.

Nine of the voters had to climb a steep mountain trail to reach the polling place—the cliffside home of Cornelius Griffin. The 10th was ill and cast an absentee ballot.

Hart's Location has not always voted straight Republican but it generally has favored the GOP over Democratic candidates.

Will Be Sentenced

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP)—Det. Lt. Michael G. Hozer of Cliffside Park, convicted of ignoring the gambling operations of Frank Erickson, will be sentenced Nov. 19. A six-man six-woman jury found Hozer guilty last night of misconduct in office after deliberating 10 hours.
